MORE WORKERS REQUIRED IN ADAMS COUNTY

Everyone in Adams county who wants a job should be able to get one this summer.

That was the word today from the local office of the Pennsylvania State Employment service in connection with its monthly report showing that 261 persons got jobs through the PSES during the 30-day period ending April 25. Of that number 75 were veterans of World War II.

Farm hands are needed now and more and more will be needed during the summer, E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office said. In addition there are more jobs on road construction work that will be available in the near future than there have been for many years, he added.

Housing Shortage
Right now the office is worried about how to house the workers it believes it will have to import from outside the county when all counties who want work have been placed. While the housing situation for seasonal farm labor has improved it still falls short of the expected demand, Crouse said.

One dark spot on the employment picture, the curtailment of production in some county shoe factories and the complete closing down by a few is counterbalanced by the demand for construction, farm and food processing workers, Crouse said. One of the activities this summer which will require a number of workers is the Lincoln highway relocation between here and Franklin county. In addition hundreds of harvest hands will be needed by the fruit growers.

Gettysburg college is constantly expanding its facilities and activities. Nearly every department has experienced a fine program of expansion and campus activities are increasing at a rapid pace.

The physical education department, under the capable guidance of C. E. Elheimer, athletic director, and Henry T. Bream, head coach of football and basketball, has made rapid and elaborate strides in expanding its activities. These have been enumerated in these columns during recent months.

To help install the T-formation style of football offense which will be used on the gridiron here this fall alternating with the single wing style, the college brought Al Sherman, star quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles professional football team, to the college to help instruct the quarterback candidates.

Sherman can be called an Ambassador-of-good-will from the pro ranks to the college. During his few days in Gettysburg he has made many friends, especially with the Bulletin writers.

Fairfield Road Is Nearing Completion

All the blacktop work on the approaches on both sides of the new concrete and stone bridge over Marsh Creek on the Fairfield road was finished this week, but it will be a few days before the road is opened to traffic, a representative of Hempt Brothers, Camp Hill, the contractors, said today.

"It won't be long now," he said, "if the weather doesn't hold us up." There are still some guard rails to be placed, grading done on some of the shoulders and other minor details to be completed, it was said.

AGENT VOICES OPPOSITION TO DAYLIGHT TIME

M. T. Hartman, Adams county farm agent, defends the farmers' opposition to daylight saving time, in the following statement:

"Nature plays a very important part in the production of crops and livestock. The farmer has for his workshop the open fields and is at the mercy of the elements.

"Under normal conditions the accumulation of moisture in the form of dew makes it impossible for the farmer to carry on many essential operations such as planting, cultivation, spraying and harvesting during the early forenoon. Livestock farmers must practice caution in turning cattle on pasture due to bloat which is far more prevalent when the grass is wet with dew.

"Generally speaking it is seldom that field operations can be safely started prior to 8:30 a.m. Eastern standard time.

"Why should daylight saving time be of any special concern to the farmer? The farmer can work on any time schedule he desires.

"When banks, business places, schools and churches operate on daylight saving time it becomes necessary for the farmer to adopt the same schedule.

"Loss Working Time"
"Employees on the farm desire to participate in the events in the community and therefore choose to work on daylight time. The farm operator is the one that is concerned because he realizes that normal production is not possible because of loss of

MUSIC FESTIVAL AT GHS SCORES HIT WITH CROWD

More than 500 attended the music festival held by the members of the various choruses of Gettysburg high school Friday evening at the school.

The well polished program was well received, with the audience by its applause inducing a number of encores by various singers and groups.

Girls In Evening Gowns

The boys' trio, Reginald Dunkinson, Galen Keeney and James Slaybaugh, were called for several encores and Reginald Dunkinson so pleased the audience with his tenor solos that he had to sing another, "Because" before the audience would permit the program to continue. James Slaybaugh also scored with his abilities as a square dance figure caller while the choir sang "Skip To My Lou," an American dance tune.

The girls taking part in the program were in formal evening dress and Richard B. Shade, the conductor, wore a formal evening suit. Spring flowers were in baskets across the stage and in vases on the window sills.

Yanks And Britons Battle To Save Starving Germans

Berlin, July 1 (AP)—The United States and Britain stepped up their flow of planes to Berlin today in a bid to break the Soviet food blockade.

On the diplomatic front, the U.S., Britain and France considered joining forces in a new effort to open up the western sectors of the city, where some 2,000,000 Berliners face slow starvation.

Britain and the U. S. funneled in more than 200 planes yesterday in the greatest air ferrying operation in peacetime history. The Americans had sent 125 transports to the city by late afternoon and more were en route. The British flew in 100 cargo craft and promised to double the number by the end of the week.

In Washington, U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall said "We intend to stay" in Berlin regardless of the Russian blockade. His announcement coincided with a Washington announcement that the number of B-29 superfortresses in

The cool dry air headed into the eastern sector of the country where temperatures yesterday reached new highs for the summer season. Rain fell in some east coast states during the night. At least 11 deaths attributed to high temperatures and storms were reported in the area, including nine in New England.

"These various other holidays are without doubt of historical importance and significance to our nation, but let us not forget that without that which July 4th stands for this great country of ours would not exist as it does today."

3 Powers Offer 45,000,000 Germans Federal Government

Frankfurt, Germany, July 1 (AP)—The U. S., Britain and France offered the 45,000,000 western Germans the right today to form their own federal government and accept a substitute for a peace treaty.

The government, giving western German officials full power except in foreign relations, probably will come into being early next year. It would unite the three western occupation zones.

The Russians and their satellite states talked last week in Warsaw of establishing an eastern German state. Moscow and German Communists have expressed anger over the plan for western Germany.

German leaders did not immediately accept the proposal made by the western powers' military governors. They asked time to discuss it but there was no question as to whether the offer will be accepted.

The German political leaders of the three zones met with Gen. Lucius D. Clay (U.S.) Sir Brian Robertson (Britain) and Pierre Koenig (France) at U. S. army headquarters, the former office of the I. G. Farbenindustrie Chemical Trust.

Russians Bolt Four-Power Allied Body Ruling Berlin

Berlin, July 1 (AP)—The Russians quit the Berlin city government today and thus killed the last functioning four-power governing body in Germany.

A British spokesman reported this latest development in the Berlin crisis. He said the Russians withdrew from the kommandatura, the allied body set up to rule Berlin, with the statement that "the kommandatura no longer exists."

The spokesman quoted Col. Boris Kalinin, the Soviet chief of staff here, as blaming the behavior of Col. Frank Howley, American commander for Berlin, and introduction of the western currency into the city, for the death of the kommandatura.

In Frankfurt, the political representatives of 45,000,000 Germans received the proposals of the Americans, French and British for setting up a separate state in the western occupation zones. They asked for time to discuss it, but acceptance was a foregone conclusion.

The division of Germany into separate eastern and western states appeared certain unless new four-power talks are launched on the highest political levels. The Russians

SEEK REPORTS ON RESULTS OF SPRAYING WORK

The borough council's mosquito committee today asked for reports on the effectiveness of the spray program against these pests and flies.

Employees of Vogel-Ritt, Inc., Hagerstown, employed by the borough council to "fog" and spray the town, expected to complete the job Friday, weather permitting.

The spraying crew began work in Gettysburg Tuesday afternoon by taking samples of water in various parts of the town to determine the amount of mosquito larvae present.

"Fogging" followed, with the entire west section of the borough being completed Wednesday night and early this morning.

"We would appreciate it if residents of Gettysburg will report to us how the mosquito control is working," a member of the committee said today.

Tests Show "Bad Spots"

Tests taken under the direction of L. E. Sellman, Hagerstown, representative of Vogel-Ritt, Inc., showed several "bad spots" in the borough, the committee reported, among them the brickyard, low land at the west end of High street, and Rock creek.

Conditions in the Tiber were found to be "not so bad," but it was pointed out that recent, frequent rains have kept this stream "flushed out" fairly well. Mosquitoes need stagnant water to breed, Sellman said.

Water and swampy land was sprayed with a straight oil solution. Other parts of the town were sprayed with oil and DDT. Parts already done include the campus and land adjacent to the Lutheran Theological seminary; Buford, Springs, West Middle and other streets in the west end of town; Chambersburg street and alleys on both sides west from Center square. Part of the south section of town has been done.

Work Late At Night

Spraying on the Gettysburg college campus and in the north and east ends and what remains of the south end will be done today unless weather interferes, the committee said.

Race Horse alley was fogged its entire length on both sides, from Wolford's service station to the west end below Liberty street. Part of York and Stratton streets, a part of East Middle street, and several other alleys also were "smoked" with the fine spray. Most of this was done late Wednesday night and early this morning.

Rock creek is scheduled to be coated with oil Friday. Where possible the stream will be coated by machine. Men with hand sprays will cover parts the machine cannot reach.

ARABS INVADE PALESTINE AT THREE POINTS

Jerusalem, May 1 (AP)—The Arab states' invasion of Palestine is under way, the Jewish militia Haganah reported today.

Haganah headquarters at Tel Aviv said forces from Syria and Lebanon invaded northern Palestine at dawn and advanced on three Jewish settlements with armored cars and tanks.

The Egyptian army, according to unofficial sources in Cairo, crossed into southern Palestine at midnight. In southern Jerusalem, Jewish forces consolidated their hold on the Katamon sector.

70 Jews Killed

On the Jaffa-Tel Aviv front, the British reported at least 70 Jews in Irgun Zvai Leumi were killed when Arabs broke a truce and the Jews returned fire. Earlier the British announced the Irgun men were killed when Irgun broke a British cease-fire order, but the announcement was amended.

Irgun Zvai Leumi was understood to be transferring the wrecked borderzone Manshieh area of Jaffa, seized from the Arabs, to squads of Haganah fighters.

It was assumed Haganah would hand the area over to the British in accordance with a British truce ultimatum. The British had given Irgun, the Jewish underground force, until noon today to withdraw from positions they had seized in the port of Jaffa and to cease fire in the area from Jaffa southward to Beit Dejan.

British Deploy Troops
British troops were to be deployed all along the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border area.

An Irgun spokesman had said earlier that Irgun was occupying the entire southern part of Jaffa's Manshieh quarter, and added:

"Irgun, who fought the British out of Palestine, does not accept British ultimatums."

Royal Air force Spitfires flew over the Jewish-held Katamon area of Jerusalem, but a Jewish agency spokesman said the RAF notified the agency this was a demonstration and no air strike was planned against Jewish positions.

Snipe at British

A Haganah source said the Jews were entrenched firmly in St. Simon's Greek orthodox monastery, a former Arab stronghold on the eastern edge of the Katamon quarter, and had driven a wedge into the western side. Jewish hilltop positions command the section.

"The fight is not over," an Arab spokesman said. "We shall drive them out."

A British communique reported continued sniping at British posts in Jerusalem. It said that during the night Jewish forces probed Arab defenses to the south and east of the British cantonment area but were driven back by the Arabs.

HOPES TO STOP RAIL STRIKE

Chicago, May 1 (AP)—There appears a possibility of heading off the crippling nationwide railroad strike set for May 11, says the federal mediation chief.

Commenting on the efforts of the National (railway) Mediation Board to effect a settlement between the carriers and three operating unions, Chairman Frank P. Douglass said:

"There is a possibility that we might be able to make some recommendations that are not already included in the emergency board's report which might stave off the strike."

He said he had found "a sincere disposition on the part of both sides to try to find a settlement."

Railroad representatives met with the board yesterday after the three unions huddled with the conciliators on Thursday. Today separate meetings with both sides were planned by the conciliators.

"We have in mind the principal points on which they are apart and we are now trying to reconcile these points of view," Douglass told newsmen after yesterday's meeting with the carriers.

COUNTY HOME TO BE REPAIRED

The Adams county commissioners are aware of conditions at the county home and are going to do all in their power to rectify the situation there, they told the Rev. Floyd A. Carroll, local Methodist pastor, who met with the county officials Friday afternoon at their invitation.

The Rev. Mr. Carroll last Sunday described conditions in the men's building at the county home as being reminiscent of the dark ages.

"I was assured the commissioners are aware of conditions at the county home and was informed that they already have made some repairs. The commissioners said they are going to do all in their power to rectify conditions that now exist," the Rev. Mr. Carroll said after his talk with the county officials.

"The commissioners told me that the conditions I had noticed had accumulated over a long period of time and had been inherited by them when they became commissioners at the beginning of this year when they entered office."

"I told them that I would be happy to make a statement to the public of the commissioners' statements to me but I added that if conditions are not corrected I will not hesitate in the future to again call such matters to the attention of the people," the pastor said.

TRUCKER HELD FOR MURDER

York, Pa., May 1 (AP)—A 35-year-old truck driver and junk dealer was arrested today charged with murder in the fatal shooting of a neighbor and serious wounding of his own wife.

The accused, Peter Kleiman, was picked up by police near his home after an all-night man-hunt by police and firemen.

The man-hunt got underway after John Benson, 70, was killed and Kleiman's wife, Mrs. Ethel Kleiman, 30, mother of four children, was shot five times in Benson's home last night.

Capt. Jacob W. Hose, of the York police, filed the murder charge against Kleiman before Alderman Thomas J. Little. Kleiman was committed without bail to the York county jail. Hose identified Benson as a negro.

Capt. Hose and Lt. George Williams said the shooting occurred after Kleiman went to the Benson home nearby. They said another person, whom they did not identify, was being held as a material witness in the case.

Benson died instantly from a bullet wound in the right chest. Mrs. Kleiman was shot five times. Three shots struck her in the left hip, and others near the heart and right side.

She was taken to the York hospital where her condition was reported as serious.

ARAB LEAGUE REFUSES PACT ON PALESTINE

Cairo, July 1 (AP)—A high Arab league source said today the league has decided to reject United Nations proposals for a solution of the Palestine question.

Arab and Jewish leaders are separately preparing their answers to Count Folke Bernadotte, the U.N. mediator, on his proposals for a Holy Land peace.

The league informant said he expected Bernadotte to come to Cairo within the next two days.

Tewfik Abu Houda Pasha, Trans-Jordan prime minister, said today that Bernadotte's proposal provides for annexation of the Arab part of the Holy Land to Trans-Jordan.

"Sovereign Country"

Houda Pasha declared this would be tantamount to returning Trans-Jordan to a dependent status, since the proposed new state would be under partial U.N. jurisdiction.

"I have notified the Arab league's political committee," he said, "that Trans-Jordan is a sovereign country and cannot yield any part of its sovereignty."

"I also told the committee Trans-Jordan has no ambition whatever regarding Palestine and only aims at preventing the creation of a Jewish state and partition of the Holy Land."

Houda Pasha said the annexation proposal was a "revival of the old Jewish plan."

After "complete liberation," he added, "Palestinians will freely decide whether they will have an independent state, joining the Arab league or unite to Egypt, Trans-Jordan or any other Arab country."

Separate Peace Talks

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli minister said he thought his government would have an answer ready in "a couple of days."

U.N. headquarters at Lake Success said Bernadotte disclosed he had invited Jewish and Arab leaders to Rhodes for separate peace talks but said he had no immediate plans for a joint round table discussion. His peace proposals have not been officially released for publication and he imposed secrecy on both parties.

The last of Britain's Palestine troops pulled out of Haifa yesterday and Israel's Star of David replaced the Union Jack over the harbor, thus ending a 31-year military occupation by the British.

Jewish officials in Tel Aviv said it had been reported that the army of Fawzi Pasha Al Kauki has again broken the U.N. truce by firing on Jewish positions in Sejera, lower Galilee.

WOULD ACCEPT FDR'S WIDOW FOR VICE-PRES.

Washington, July 1 (AP)—President Truman predicted victory over the Dewey-Warren ticket in 1948 today and said Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt would be an acceptable running mate.

Mr. Truman described as foolish question number one a reporter's inquiry as to whether he would withdraw from the race.

The President then replied he would get the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot at the national convention meeting in Philadelphia July 12.

Mr. Truman told a rapid-fire news conference that he was not worried by talk of a southern revolt against him.

The political questioning began when someone remarked that Senator J. Howard McGrath, Democratic A reporter observed that former asserted Mr. Truman would be nominated on the first ballot.

Up To Convention

The President said McGrath was correct.

Selection of a vice presidential candidate, he said, is up to the national convention.

This reporter observed that former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.) had suggested that the Democrats' only hope was to nominate Mrs. Roosevelt at the President's running mate.

Would Mrs. Roosevelt be acceptable to the President as vice presidential candidate, this reporter asked.

Mr. Truman replied: of course, Tony, of course.

Then Mr. Truman asked what the reporter would expect him (the President) to say to that.

(This exchange was with Ernest B. (Tony) Vaccaro of the Associated Press.)

As to whether he would welcome Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a running mate, the President suggested that the question be put to Eisenhower.

Mr. Truman made it plain that he would make the record of the Republican-dominated 80th Congress an issue in the campaign.

He said the Republicans left many jobs undone when they quit June 20 for their Republican national convention.

"Will you call a special session?" a newsman asked.

Mr. Truman said he would not comment on that at this time.

LAUDS TOWN'S "REC" PROGRAM

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Charles R. Barber, state welfare secretary, today lauded the way New Castle is meeting the juvenile delinquency problem with an over-all recreation program.

"I am glad to see the initiative being taken by local communities," Barber commented. "This is the place the problem can be attacked."

New Castle is now spending $25,000 a year on a play program for its children and Mayor John H. Haven said it "is paying off 100 per cent" in reducing juvenile delinquency.

Barber said similar programs are in operation in Erie, Reading and other cities under a state law which enables both official and civic agencies to join together in combatting delinquency.

"That is where the most effective approach to the problem can be made and everywhere it is being done, it is getting results," Barber added.

Will Assist Boroughs

The welfare department, through its bureau on community work, is ready at all times, he added, to give "aid and assistance" to local communities developing such plans.

In the case of New Castle, the super-recreation program was launched three years ago. The city now has 14 playgrounds and during the winter, holds dances twice a week at city hall. Also included are a basketball and horse-shoe pitching leagues.

Moths are plentiful in Palestine and are mentioned in the Bible.

Pendergast said the probe will deal specifically with veterans' houses built in 1946 and 1947 with priorities and under authorization of the Federal Housing Authority.

Patrick F. Davis, field agent in charge of the investigation branch of the expeditor's office here, said complaints have been received that veterans were charged over the maximum sales prices and that homes were not built according to specifications contained in the builders' applications to the Federal Housing Authority.

Explains Time Limit

Pendergast said "The most frequent accusation against builders is 'short-cutting.' Sometimes the charge is outright omission of materials or equipment. Often it is the substitution of inferior materials."

Explaining the time limit of the inquiry, he said that since Jan. 1, 1948, there have been no restrictions on sales prices and specifications of newly-constructed homes.

Countian Forfeits $10 Cash Bond In York

A New Oxford hotel proprietor forfeited a $10 cash bond by failing to appear in York police court Wednesday to face charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Patrolman Richard H. Enders told Magistrate Raymond M. Sohli that the defendant entered a drug store in York Tuesday evening and hurled goods from the shelves.

Enders said the defendant next made for the nearest bus stop where he asked a question of a waiting bus patron and then threatened him when he didn't make a satisfactory reply.

SMOKE BLANKETS GOLDEN TRIANGLE

Pittsburgh, July 1 (AP)—Firemen fought a spectacular fire in a downtown office building for nearly two hours today while smoke blanketed the Golden Triangle during the morning rush hour and thousands crowded nearby streets to watch.

The flames were confined to the top floor of an eight-story building on the Boulevard of the Allies near Wood street, housing the Pittsburgh Office Furniture and Supply company. No one was injured.

Fire Chief William H. Davis estimated damage at about $50,000 but owner Jack Sacks, former Pitt football player, said no estimate could be made until equipment was inspected. Goods stored on lower floors were expected to be damaged by the tons of water poured into the brick structure.

Sacks and Chief Davis said the cause of the fire was not yet determined. Sacks said: "I was at the building at about 10 minutes to seven to pick up a newspaper. I went to a restaurant for breakfast. When I returned, the fire had already started."

Spanish War Vet, 76, Father Of Babe

Pittston, Pa., July 1 (AP)—A 76-year-old Spanish-American war veteran and his 34-year-old wife are the parents of a baby girl born yesterday.

The girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Tighe. Tighe is a past commander of the Pittston Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The child was born at the rooming house where the couple live. An hour later the mother and child were admitted to Pittston hospital. There the baby was reported in good condition and the mother in fair condition.

Westbury, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—The early season favorite, Dr. Stanton, has drawn an outside position and as a result a wide open race is seen in the $25,000 pacing derby at Roosevelt Raceway tomorrow night.

Dr. Stanton, who had a brilliant harness racing record on the west coast this spring, was given the No. 6 position.

Forbes Chief, to be driven by young Del Cameron, drew the pole, giving him a tremendous advantage in the stake event.

Three other stout contenders are April Star, winner of the National in 1946; Little Judy and Indian Land. They drew the eighth, seventh and ninth positions, respectively.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Princeton, N. J., July 1 (AP)—The modern version of commencement day seems to be that it is the time when college and high school ball players pick up a contract instead of a diploma. . . . In the past few days about half the regulars who played in last week's world series have been signed by various professional clubs, most of them getting good bonuses. . . . The stars who were eliminated in the early rounds of the NCAA playoffs signed up earlier and high school graduations have been the signal for a rush of scouts. . . . Latest prize is John Antonelli, the Rochester, N. Y., high school whiz, who was grabbed by the Braves. . . . The Phillies have been handing out cash at a rate that inspired the Bulletin's Don Donaghy to suggest that if the wealthy Carpenters ever get tired of running the Phils, the rookies can form a syndicate and buy the club with their bonus money.

Grounds for Devore-CE
Hughie Devore, St. Bonaventure football coach, risked a golf match the other day with basketball coach Eddie Milkovich, an effervescent character who swings left handed and carries on a running conversation with himself or anyone within hearing while he plays. . . . Afterwards Hughie was moaning to the golf pro, Bobby Peters, that Milkovich "had me batting cross-handed before we reached the third hole."

Replied Peters: "I know. Eddie took some lessons from me. When I got through, I had to take three lessons myself—and I still find myself talking to the ball."

ONE-MINUTE SPORT PAGE
Although there's a lot of talk about "sprint" and "distance" crews around the boathouse where the Olympic rowing candidates hang out, Comdr. Buck Walsh, Navy's veteran coach, won't participate. . . . Says Buck: "All the crews that have won the Olympics in the past have been so outstanding that there wasn't any way of telling whether they were better in long or short races." . . . The single sculls trials may wind up as just one heat involving Jack Kelly and a couple of other guys who don't count. . . . If they want a lot of "skulls" they should ring in some of those celebrated Dodge outlanders. . . . The country club of Virginia at Richmond has over 3,000 members. The club champion is S. R. Hall, the women's champion is Mrs. S. R. Hall. . . . That's one cure for golf widowhood.

LET'S HAVE A SCHOONER
The catcher on the Gipsy beer baseball team at Peoria, Ill., is named Pitcher. . . . Naturally it takes a pitcher to catch beer.

EX-NOTRE DAME STAR TO COACH MOUNTAINEERS

John Law, famous guard for Notre Dame's football teams of 1928, 1929 and 1930, has been elected as head coach of football at Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, it was announced today by the Right Rev. John L. Sheridan, president of the college.

Law graduated from Notre Dame in 1930 and then served for two years as head coach at Manhattan college, New York city. Until 1947 when he was line coach for Holy Cross, he was eastern scout for the Green Bay Packers, Los Angeles Rams and Chicago Rockets. During that time he was also scout for a number of midwest and western colleges.

During the past spring he assisted his former teammate Frank Leahy, coach of Notre Dame, for five weeks during spring practice.

Law has been employed by the Department of Correction of New York state for the last 12 years.

It was also announced today that Wally Opekun and Arthur Malloy are expected to coach the Mountaineer basketball team during the coming season.

HOGAN LEADING DETROIT FIELD

Detroit, July 1 (AP)—The biggest little man in golf today, methodical Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who wears both the National Open and PGA crowns, led a field of 120 of the nation's top-ranking linksmen into the opening round of the first Motor City open championship today at Meadowbrook country club.

Hogan, top money man of the summer tour, loomed squarely as the man to beat as 92 pros and 28 low handicap amateurs set out on the initial 18-hole round of the 72-hole stroke play scramble over Meadowbrook's hilly 6,616-yard par 35-36-71 layout.

At stake in the four-day test, 18 holes each day, is $15,000 in prizes—$2,600 to the winner, but the most coveted prize of the tournament already is firmly in the hands of slender Marty Furgol, 30-year-old North Hollywood, Calif., pro playing out of Albuquerque, N. M.

Furgol teamed with M. T. Patterson, Detroit amateur, yesterday to win a best-ball pro-amateur feature with an eight under par 33-30-63. He pocketed the keys to a bright yellow (Lincoln) convertible, priced at $3,600.

LEMON PITCHES PERFECT GAME FOR CLEVELAND

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Lemon's no run-no hit masterpiece last night made a successful prophet of Cleveland owner Bill Veeck.

The 27-year-old Indian right-hander, who tried his hand at pitching after failing to make the big league grade as an infielder or outfielder, rewarded his boss' faith by shutting out the Detroit Tigers, 2-0, without allowing a single safety.

The victory, Lemon's 11th of the season and his fifth shutout, did more than increase the tribe's first place American league margin over the Philadelphia Athletics to a game and a half. It further solidified his position as the mainstay of the Indian's staff, which includes the great Bob Feller.

It was in September of 1946 that Veeck told this reporter that Lemon "some day will become the best pitcher in the American league."

That was tremendous praise for a lad who had yet to pitch his first complete game in organized baseball, let alone the majors.

Saved By Teammates
Although yesterday's effort was by far his best, Lemon has turned in other brilliant performances this season. He has permitted only four hits in each of his four previous shutouts. He has pitched 12 complete games, the most of any pitcher, and struck out 11 and 10 men in two previous games.

Only on two occasions was his no-hitter threatened. The first scare came in the fourth inning when lefthander Dale Mitchell made an amazing one-handed leaping catch of George Kell's long drive that looked like a certain extra base hit. The other came in the fifth when Ken Keltner went deep behind third base to nip Hoot Evers on a slow hopper.

Both Cleveland runs came in the first and were unearned.

Only three Detroit runners reached base, all on walks. It was the first Major-league no-hitter of the '48 season.

Sox Beat Yankees
Jack Kramer posted his seventh win in pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 7-3 triumph over the New York Yankees. Junior Stephens drove in five runs with two hits, including his 14th homer. Ted Williams got a single in five times at bat to extend his consecutive hitting streak through 16 games.

At St. Louis, the Browns nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1. A home run by Paul Lehner spelled the difference.

The Boston Braves moved a game and a half ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National league race by downing the New York Giants, 3-1, as the Cardinals were whipped again by the Chicago Cubs, 9-1. Bill Voiselle, ex Giant, held his former mates to seven hits.

Pounding four Brooklyn pitchers for 12 hits and getting 12 walks, the Philadelphia Phillies walloped the Dodgers 13-4, at Ebbets field. The victory cost the Phils the services of Pitcher Dutch Leonard who was struck on the head by a pitched ball by Harry Taylor and was carried from the field. X-rays disclosed no fracture.

The scheduled game between the Senators and Athletics was postponed by rain. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Toss-Up In Women's Tennis Championships

London, July 1 (AP)—Four Americans got down to their private business today of determining the 1948 women's Wimbledon tennis champion.

These were the candidates:
Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., a favorite of the English.
Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont, Wilmington, Del., the defending champion.
Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Calif., the current American champion.
Mrs. Pat Canning Todd, La Jolla, Calif., a strong competitor.

Miss Hart met Mrs. Dupont and Miss Brough opposed Mrs. Todd. The results were regarded a toss-up. Each of the Americans is capable of whipping any of the other three.

BASS SEASON OPENS TODAY

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Pennsylvania's 1948 bass fishing season opened today for a five-month stand with a forecast by fish officials of a banner catch.

"There is an abundance of bass in most of our streams," declared Charles A. French, state fish commissioner.

The only cloud in the otherwise sunny outlook for Pennsylvania's fishing army was a report of muddy streams in some sections of the state. But regardless of the weather and water conditions, the fish are there to be caught for the anglers who have the know-how.

French said streams were stocked last fall with more than 620,000 bass ranging in length from two to 14 inches. This is in addition to the large bass family already scattered along Pennsylvania's waterways.

French said poor weather conditions the past two years gave the bass a chance to propagate in large numbers.

Regulations are the same this year for rivers and streams as in the past, with a limit of six bass a day and nine inches the legal minimum size. The season closes November 30.

START ROAD REPAIRS

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—The State Highways department started repairs today on U. S. Route 22 from the Lebanon-Berks county line eastward to near Hamburg. State maintenance forces are sub-sealing concrete patching and laying of a three-inch bituminous riding surface.

TEAM ERRATIC IN GOLF PLAY

Muirfield, Scotland, July 1 (AP)—America's shotmakers, off to a scrambling start, must show plenty of improvement today if they're to have a chance for the British open golf championship.

All nine of the United States' hopes ran into stretches of erratic play—mostly on the putting greens—yesterday in the first 18-hole tour of the 72-hole medal test.

Lawson Little turned in the top American performance—a 72, three strokes back of the lead—while Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, the British amateur winner, registered a horrendous 77.

The first round pace-setters were Sam King and Charlie Ward, members of last year's British Ryder cup team, and Flory Van Donck, a rangy Belgian, who shared 69's.

Bias fold tape originally was known as convent tape. This name was given to it because it was used widely by nuns.

TEN YEARS AGO

200 Dinners Served: Two hundred and four dinners were served at the Battlefield hotel on Sunday, the opening day of the management of Mr. and Mrs. L. Roy Houck. About 200 other persons were unable to be served when the capacity of the hotel was taxed. Extensive changes have been made to the interior of the hotel.

Templars Hold Services: Nearly 1,000 Knights Templar in full uniform marched to the National cemetery Sunday afternoon for the eighth annual Ascension Festival service. In the principal address in the cemetery, the Rev. Dr. William Barnes Lower, Philadelphia, grand prelate, challenged the Knights to aid in the preservation of "tested standards of Americanism which must be upheld because they are and always have been Christian."

In the procession that moved from center square at 2 o'clock were the Gettysburg high school, Gettysburg Blue and Gray, and the New Oxford high school bands.

At the cemetery Eminent Sir, Luther B. Hafer presented to the assembly Right Eminent Sir Louis O. Strassburger, grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, who extended an official welcome to the knights from 10 states and the District of Columbia. . . . The knights joined in reciting the Apostles' Creed with raised swords and then at order words and with their plumed hats removed, the assembly repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Dr. C. H. Johnson to Open Office: Dr. and Mrs. Harold C. Johnson, formerly of Philadelphia, moved on Saturday to 44 Chambersburg street, into the property formerly occupied by the late Dr. John L. Hill and his family.

The middle of the week Doctor Johnson will open his office on the first floor of the building for the practice of general medicine.

Local PCBL Council Marks 20th anniversary: The twentieth anniversary of the organization of the Ladies Council of the Pennsylvania Catholic Beneficial League and a testimonial to its out-going president, Miss Mary Ramer, were celebrated with a dinner in the parochial social room on Monday evening.

Fifty-five members and guest officers from the Grand Council at Columbia and Lancaster attended. Mrs. Harry Culp acted as toastmistress for the occasion.

The first president in 1918-19 was Mrs. Wilbur J. Stallsmith. Mrs. Jacob Small is the newly-elected president.

Wed in Lancaster: Thomas C. Brenner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Brenner, Hanover, and Miss Helen Fleming, Gettysburg R. D., were married on Saturday afternoon in Lancaster. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Brown. They have gone to housekeeping at Littlestown, where the groom is employed at a shoe factory.

James Speaks at Rally Here: Arthur H. James, Republican candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania, addressed a gathering of nearly 500 persons Thursday afternoon at the Hotel Gettysburg annex.

Mr. James was introduced by his campaign manager, S. Luther Baltzley. The invocation was given by the Rev. Howard S. Fox and the Rev. Dr. N. B. S. Thomas pronounced the benediction.

James is the first Republican gubernatorial candidate to make a speech in this county during the current campaign.

Play Concludes Events of Sub-Freshman Day: More than 700 high school seniors were guests of Gettysburg college on Saturday for the third annual Sub-Freshman Day activities.

The attendance was cut somewhat by rain. The baseball game was canceled in the afternoon. The final event of the day was the production of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" by members of the Owl and Nightingale

Today's Talk

NOT TOO FAST
I am reading a great book that took ten years to write — but it has lasted many, many times as long, and will be read when those that have been written and produced in a few weeks, months, or a year, are all forgotten.

Many of our modern "first sellers" are written for quick sales — and to make as much money as possible, then turned into the movies — and in a year or so to be forgotten. Money in competition with worth — and money the winner!

People go for vacations in their cars — and can hardly wait until they get to their destinations — driving as fast as the law may allow — and then some. But it was Tagore who stated that the road should be a part of the destination. As it should. Away from the city streets there is always interest; and knowledge is strewn along every roadside!

The methodical worker always accomplishes most. He cleans up as he goes. The pesky little worries and obstacles along the way have no attraction for him. He shoves them aside and keeps at his task. That is a true statement — "the more haste the less speed." Go slow — and sure. Every driver of a car should bear this in mind.

The human machine is like an intricate machine — the more it is pushed, and made to go faster, the less efficiency and length of years it is given. The wise consultant says: "Not too fast. Take it easy, and live longer, and happier." The old cabinet builders took time to do their work. That is why their work is so prized today, and eagerly hunted.

People do not wear out as quickly as they burn out — by going too fast. There is enjoyment in meditation. The fast reader of a book — so that he may say he has read it — gains little. It is better to live a book as you read it, and make each character your friend. Characters like Jane Eyre live forever, though conceived in fiction. And this may be said of many another — Jean Val Jean, in "Les Misérables," for example.

It would be an excellent idea if we all took more time just to think!

MAY
May is such a radiant miss. There is rapture in her kiss. She comes tripping into town With the new look in her gown, New-blown blossoms in her hair, Not a sign of age or care Or of grief or a single trace Stamped upon her youthful face; And the old earth glows to see One so beautiful as she, Turns, and as the memories stir, Winks a twinkling eye at her, Fancies that youth remains Underneath the aches and pains That to all the years bestow As they swiftly come and go. None too old and none too gray To enjoy a date with May.

Railroads Vote 15 P. C. Wage Cut: Chicago, April 29 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads adopted today a resolution under the railway labor act to serve notice of a 15 per cent wage reduction, effective July 1, for all classes of labor.

The cut would represent a saving of $250,000,000 annually to member roads, the association said.

In a memorandum the association stated the wage cut was necessary because of loss of revenue and increase in operating costs.

DEMOCRACY'S DEFENSES ARE BEING BUILT

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The inter-American conference of Bogota hasn't fulfilled all the hopes which had been built up in advance (what international parley ever does?) but it nevertheless has achieved one far-reaching success.

The 21 nations have the satisfaction of knowing that they have contributed greatly to hemispheric political solidarity. And a vital part of this contribution is the expressed determination to prevent infringement of aggressive Communism on the western world.

Time may prove that this was the most important contribution the conference could have made to our generation, coming as it does at a critical juncture in the fight-to-a-finish between Bolshevism and free nations. This battle of the isms is by far the greatest global issue of the day.

Striking Evidence
It was a whimsical fate which decreed that the conference should be disrupted by the bloody revolution which the Colombian government attributed to Communist influence. The principal item on the agenda had been hemispheric economic co-operation, but the revolt resulted in this being postponed until a later meeting in Buenos Aires, and the Bogota conference concentrated mainly on political solidarity and war against aggressive Communism. The Colombian Reds couldn't have done their cause a greater disservice.

We have striking evidence of this in yesterday's developments from western Europe. Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg announced that they had set up a permanent military organization to defend their recently concluded alliance against attack.

This action was coincident with reports in diplomatic circles in London that the United States and the five nations in the alliance have agreed tentatively on the establishment of a western German government this year. The new nation's economy presumably would be coordinated with that of the rest of western Europe.

The problem of how far America might go in backing western Europe isn't likely to be settled until the major European powers work out their own strategy of defense. However, Secretary of State Marshall has stated that the question of giving military lend-lease to western Europe is under active consideration.

Hawaii took part in the observance. The week was inaugurated this year by the National board of the YWCA to interpret and dramatize the diversified program of the association.

The record of the local club as prepared by Mrs. R. S. Saby shows that there are 500 members of the YWCA here. YWCA sponsored clubs have a membership of 150 and 25 committees and organizations used the YWCA building on Center square during April.

A statement of the purpose of the YWCA declares it to be an organization designed "to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share His love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God." Membership is open to all women 18 years of age or over. In addition there are a number of organizations for youngsters under 18.

Nationally the observance this week included a Service of Worship and a panel discussion on the housing problem.

Asks Truman's Aid On Waterway Bill

Washington, May 1 (AP)—President Truman's aid in pushing for a revival of St. Lawrence Seaway legislation was asked today by Senator Wiley (R-Wis.).

Wiley suggested appointment of a presidential commission "to review the St. Lawrence Seaway in the light of objections made by the opposition and to make suggestions to the congress."

The senate earlier this session, after lengthy debate, turned thumbs down on any Seaway legislation this year. It sent back to the Senate Foreign Relations committee a bill which would authorize the project.

Wiley, in a letter to the president, said he was asking his cooperation to utilize the time between now and convening of the new congress next January in getting set for a renewed drive for the bill.

SAYS TEXTILE WORKERS LEAD

Atlantic City, N. J., May 1 (AP)—Emil Rieve, president of the CIO Textile workers, said Friday his union is one wage increase ahead of the other CIO unions.

"In the north, the textile workers have already received their 'third round' wage increases," Rieve told a reporter. "Now, we're waiting for the rest of the CIO to catch up with us."

Asked if the union could meet the present cost of living on current wages, Rieve said, "We have a long way to go before we bring our members up to a wage level we'd like to see."

The textile workers closed their fifth biennial convention Friday. A highlight of the meeting will be an address by U. S. Senator Wayne Morse (R-Ore). Morse was described as a "liberal Republican" by Rieve, and a man who would be supported by labor if he became a presidential candidate.

The textile workers made it plain Thursday they are opposed to Communism and the third party. The convention upheld a decision by the union's executive council barring Hyman Gurinsky and Louis Bart from holding office in the union.

Gurinsky, former president of local 75, Patterson, N. J., and Bart, a long time member of the local's executive board, were found guilty of promoting "The interests of the Communist party and Communism while acting in their official capacities."

SALVAGE SCRAP METAL ON ISLES

Phoenix, Ariz., May 1 (AP)—Arrangements have been completed for a multi-million dollar scrap metal transaction involving delivery of abandoned war materials to Bethlehem Steel company.

George H. Rawlins, president of the Oceanic Trading company, said the contract calls for delivery of from 180,000 to 1,000,000 tons of unusable equipment now rusting on the Pacific islands of Guam, Tinian, Saipan, Manus and Okinawa.

Oceanic and its parent company, General Commodities Corp., has purchased the material from the Chinese government.

Rawlins said the material will be delivered to Bethlehem Steel by Lipsett, Inc., a New York firm that has agreed to process and ship the metal on a profit sharing basis. The scrap metal on the islands is valued at from $6,600,000 to $37,000,000, Rawlins said.

Ottawa, Canada, (AP)—Tourists spent a record $238,000,000 in Canada in 1947, or $17,000,000 more than the previous high set in 1946.

Have Troubles? Read This One

Oakland, Calif., May 1 (AP)—Troubles? Listen to Chief Petty Officer John Lambert's.

He was transferred from Alameda Naval Air station to the Navy's torpedo testing ground near Pasadena, but — the airplane he boarded took him to the Guided Missile center at Pt. Mugu, instead.

While he was stranded there, his wife, whom he hadn't seen in a year, arrived here by air.

The navy sent a friend of Lambert's to meet her, but he got a ticket for speeding en route.

The Lamberts finally were reunited in an Oakland apartment — but the landlord called police. He complained he hadn't been informed the apartment had been sublet to the couple.

The Lamberts were ordered to get out by today. The strain of it all caused Mrs. Lambert to collapse from nervous exhaustion. She was taken to Oak Knoll Naval hospital.

The chief went to the police station to pay his friend's speeding fine of $5 — and returned to find his own car ticketed for illegal parking.

SAYS EUROPE IS NOT 'CHRISTIAN'

Baltimore, May 1 (AP)—Bishop John S. Stamm said Thursday that "We can no longer think of Europe as a Christian area. Today, most of Europe is becoming progressively more and more pagan."

Dr. Stamm spoke at the 73rd session of the Evangelical United Brethren church's Atlantic conference, over which he is presiding.

"Europeans are susceptible to Communism because they have experienced deep disappointment in religion's failure to produce bread, clothes and housing," he said.

The Harrisburg, Pa., bishop said that "We have to go to Europe as missionaries. Perhaps the greatest contribution of the Marshall plan may be that it will lay the foundation for spiritual recovery."

Bishop Stamm, vice president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, returned recently from a tour of Europe, where he surveyed his denomination's work.

The conference continues through Monday. Dr. Stamm was to go to Washington today for a conference with President Truman.

At yesterday's conference delegates passed a resolution stating they are opposed to universal military training and a temporary draft.

Today's Talk

THE PLAYGROUND OF BOOKS

Now that vacation time is on and people are planning places to go for recreation and relaxation, I should like to suggest a supplement, by which this season may be spiced and relished to the mind's gain, as well as that of the body. I wish to suggest the playground of books!

No enrichment to the mind and spirit of man can compare with that which results from the reading of books. You can go to the ends of the earth. You can taste of adventure; you can learn of all the peoples of the earth. You can enter the world of nature and learn of its fascinating mysteries and revelations. You can talk with the great and the humble. You can revel in the poetry of the heart.

The more you learn about the peoples of the earth the more you learn about yourself. Misunderstanding is what creates wars. Go to the playground of books and go back to your work this summer with an enlarged horizon of thought and a wider sympathy with your fellowman. Books accomplish this. It is as though you took an artist, a story writer, a poet, a historian, a philosopher, with you on your vacation. Books, you must understand, are the shadows and recorded expressions of men and women.

You will never be alone if you have a book at hand. A book is a silent friend — and you can choose from the very great, no matter what your station in life. Books belong to you, and you invest nothing in their bed or board! They will give to you what you choose — hope, comfort, entertainment, inspiration, relaxation — and peace.

The inexpensive, fine assortment of books that are being sold by the millions, in convenient, small volumes are a blessing to man-kind. They can be slipped into the pocket or several into your grip — and you can leave them behind to give joy to others when you leave for home. Breathe upon the waters! But take my suggestion and venture into the playground of books. Be refreshed in mind and spirit!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Decisions."

The seed, and then the tender root,
The bud, the blossom and the fruit,
And autumn's close:

The springtime rains, the summer sun,
Then winter, and the labors done;
And so it goes.

First childhood (and how sweet it seems!)
Then youth with all the golden dreams
The young mind knows.

Then joys and sorrows, good and ill;
Then last, gray clouds and winter's chill;
And so it goes.

Through seasons four man's pathways run.
Life is a blend of cloud and sun
From birth to close.
Playtime and toil time, smiles and tears.

With deeds, the harvest of his years;
And so it goes.

WILL MEASURE UNIVERSE WITH NEW TELESCOPE

Palomar Mountain, Calif., July 1 (AP)—The foremost job of the 200-inch telescope will be to complete a highly accurate yardstick for measuring the universe.

This yardstick is partly ready now. It consists of an imaginary line 60 million million miles long with equally imaginary marks on it like inches on a foot ruler. But out toward the end of the yardstick the marks are not now accurately spaced.

The problem is like that of a man at the starting end of the stick trying to establish marks out to the other end by sighting along the straight line. The farther out he sees the more difficult it is to peg the places on it where the marks should be.

To do this will require some highly complex observations of known stars and galaxies and a final venture into using the peculiar behavior of light from far distant island universes. Dr. Walter Baade, of Mt. Wilson observatory, told the American Astronomical Society today.

Seek Creations Fringe
In the shadow of the "big eye," now known as the Hale telescope, Dr. Baade outlined the working program for the $6,000,000 instrument upon which scientists are relying heavily in their drive to find the outward fringe of creation.

The first step, Dr. Baade said, will be to redetermine the brightness of some known, relatively nearby stars whose distances already have been pretty well calculated.

These stars are called cepheid variables. Their brilliance goes up and down at regular periods, usually hours or days. The longer the periods, the brighter these stars are. Since their distance is known, astronomers in brilliance can get an accurate measure of their intrinsic or actual brightness.

By comparing this brightness with the light of other cepheid variables in faraway galaxies whose exact distances are not known, the astronomers can pick those distances pretty accurately and in turn can compute the distances of those galaxies.

The 100-inch telescope on Mt. Wilson, with the aid of a wartime instrument for magnifying starlight, already has determined the distances of these stars in 14 galaxies.

Since the Hale telescope can reach out effectively to twice the distance of the 100-inch, it will add data from 14 galaxies farther out, to a distance of about 10,000,000 light years, Dr. Baade said. That distance is 60 million million miles.

Discussions For Rail Wage Broken

Philadelphia, July 1 (AP)—The United Railroad Workers (CIO), representing 50,000 non-operating employees, and the Pennsylvania railroad broke off wage discussions yesterday.

The company asked time to prepare counter proposals to the union's demands for contract benefits.

The union sought a 25-cent across the board wage increase and a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours.

Under the current wage scales, the employees average "in the neighborhood of $12.00 an hour, Robert Walkinshaw, chairman of the union negotiating committee said.

In addition to wage hikes, Walkinshaw said the union is seeking rule changes that will bring working conditions of maintenance-of-equipment men to "modern standards of the industry."

He added that the company gave no reply to the union demand on limitation of time in which counter proposals may be drafted.

A spokesman for the railroad said "The negotiations are proceeding between the parties in accordance with the Railway Labor Act." He said the company would make no comment beyond this statement.

In a modern, heated building as many as four generations of moths can be produced in a year.

State C.C. To Survey Job Opportunities

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Prospective job opportunities in Pennsylvania will be surveyed by the State Chamber of commerce to aid in improving public school programs.

The chamber said the state's school system is giving "white collar" or pre-college instruction to 90 per cent of its pupils, whereas 68 per cent of all pupils go into "blue collar" jobs after they leave school.

As a result, the chamber said it has recommended that a greater portion of public school expenditures in Pennsylvania be devoted to vocational education.

The present survey will be made to serve as a guide to the joint state government commission in charting long-range educational needs of the state.

"As presently planned," the chamber explained, "the survey will cover the probable job requirements of Pennsylvania employers over the next five years, classified according to type of educational preparation needed for the jobs that will be available to new employees."

38 ARE GIVEN SCHOLARSHIPS

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Thirty-eight public school teachers have been awarded scholarships at the Pennsylvania Conservation Education Laboratory for Teachers at the Pennsylvania State college.

The course includes trips to fish hatcheries, mines, reforestation projects and wild life preserves.

The laboratory is a joint project of the Department of Public Instruction, Forests and Waters, Agriculture, Commerce and Mines and the State Game and Fish commission.

The teachers, who are attending the first session from June 28 to July 17, all have three years teaching experience. Awards for the second session, July 19 to August 7, will be announced later.

RAIN DRENCHES FUNERAL PYRES IN QUAKE CITY

Fukui, Japan, July 1 (AP)—Rain pelted funeral pyres in quake and fire ridden Fukui today, adding to the misery of the thousands of homeless.

Concern was felt for refugees roaming the area as more heavy rains were forecast. River levees were smashed by the temblor of Monday. Danger of death dealing floods was acute.

Fresh earth shocks were felt, too, but they were of a minor nature. Two men searching the ruins for bodies were injured slightly by debris knocked from buildings in the new temblor.

(The Japanese national police in Tokyo announced the "official" earthquake casualties in Fukui and Ishikawa provinces stood at 3,254 dead and 7,521 injured. These figures varied but little from tolls reported by U.S. Eighth army from police and relief workers lists.)

Bodies of 325 victims, including 22 children, were recovered this morning.

So great was the destruction that some saddened families began burning their flattened houses in Buddhist funeral rites without knowing how many corpses lay beneath. It appeared unlikely any completely accurate total of the dead would be known. Families are scattered and fire consumed many bodies after the earthquake laid waste the town of 80,000.

Flakes and balls of naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene are good moth-control compounds.
Cracks in the floor where lint and loose hairs from pets may collect can form lava nurseries.

Accuracy That Saves
There would be less trouble in motordom if car owners would be more accurate in describing conditions. An owner complains about the engine backfiring when he means that there are explosions in the exhaust. That is known as "after firing." He speaks of a knock when what he hears is clearly a tap or a rap. He throws his mechanic way off the beam by complaining that the car darts and dives when it really just wanders like a drunk. Owners often scream "shimmy" when the front wheels are just tramping. It has become habitual with most mechanics to guess that when an owner says there's a skip in the engine the motor really is gasping for fuel, but the profession can't always be ready to suspect an inaccurate description of the ailment. Let's give Joe a break by telling him what the car really is doing, not just something we've heard that cars do.

Every so often owners will take a look at the engine in the dark and become alarmed at sight of a light, hazy purple flash between the primary terminal and the plastic top of the ignition coil. They fear this means ignition trouble, frequently dropping in to see Joe about it next morning when, of course, there's nothing to be seen but an engine hitting on all eight.

What the owner has seen is the normal static discharge. Its most significant fact is its silence. A real short gives forth with a snapping noise, and is either bluish white in color or reddish.

Rough On Coils
One of the ignition parts makers has an amusing bulletin headed "What Killed the Coil?" that ought to be required reading in all shops if for no reason other than it stresses the consequences of failure to consider the importance of little things like spark plug points and radio suppressors. Anything that introduces unnecessary resistance will cause the coil to step up its output. A defective suppressor for the car's radio will overload a coil in this way; so will spark plug points that are gapped too wide for this particular ignition system. And here's where you come in, for if you neglect the plugs to the extent of going way beyond the point of checking for normal wear on their electrodes you may force the coil to over-exert itself. In short, you get a coil breakdown just because the plugs are neglected. Don't forget that if breaker points burn out too freely you may also get a coil breakdown. The high voltage may cook the coil, too.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Springtime ought to suggest the need for checking over the car's many coil springs which have been exposed to years of varying weather. I have in mind the throttle return spring and those springs which return clutch and brake pedals to their normal position.

"If valve springs have been breaking the chances are that there has been an excessive amount of diluent in the crankcase. Water and acids in the oil have a corrosive effect on tired valve springs. Once they start breaking better replace all of them, and change oil more often."

Watch Those Doors
Hat's off to the reader who reminds us to spend more time waxing the door panels. Time was when the running board protected the car's sides against road splash, but the new styling has changed this. Those doors of your new car now are the first line of defense and, as such, need all the protection you can give them. So skip the hood now and again in favor of the doors and wide sides of those fenders. It's a big expense of vulnerability.

The Motor Primer
So many motorists have asked for resumption of those short chats on basic theories of car design I feel compelled to sneak one in now and again. This time I'd like to say a word about the cooling system which, believe it or not, is essentially kept in line by benefit of air. Water is just a medium in the process, like the metal of the head and block.

A common arrangement in the earlier days was to let the water circulate by its own action. As it heated it rose, thus causing automatic circulation. We called this "thermo-siphon."

Today all systems are further activated by a circulation pump, but the thermo-siphon action continues. That explains why water will sometimes go out the radiator overflow pipe, if it is sufficiently heated when the engine is switched off.

Scotch And Soda Previews
It has been so long since Detroit held previews of new models it's no wonder that the bar is getting more attention than the products at some current unveilings. But things may get back to an even keel before long. Recently one editor kept himself dry to a point where he did an excellent job of passing along to his readers news of an interesting new car, meanwhile scoring a beat on a contemporary who still doesn't remember whether he was sent to look over a car or a night club. Promotion men are partly responsible for this. I have before me a de luxe invitation to the preview of a British car in New York. I'm promised a drink and the hope that I will be kind enough to consider the car, too. Brother, is that putting the differential before the engine!

Interested In Trailers?
With Spring ahead it isn't any wonder so many are looking over the lush new trailers with the thought of breaking loose from home ties. Just to make these pioneers more uneasy, let me point out a few of the new things that are making trailer life more desirable.

First, there are the new trailer parks set to higher standards of convenience and service, one of which is cooperatively owned by those who use it. Then there are the new materials for body construction and insensuous insulation. Stressed are better locks to prevent robbery when the trailer is not at home. Use of electric brakes and special dollies at the coupling check "jack knifing." All trailer owners welcome the greater power of the new cars.

Means Fewer Accidents
A new way to attach outside rear view mirrors ought to stimulate interest in this type of safety accessory. Previously it has been necessary either to do a lot of drilling or use one of the clamps to fit the mirror to the front end of the left front door. Where doors had a wide chrome band these clamps would not fit at all. Now all you have to do is drill one small hole in the door and affix the mirror's bracket with a special screw that won't come loose. The bracket completely covers the screw.

What's Your Trouble?
Q. I have wired the foglights on my car so that I can burn them at the same time the headlights are on, but this appears to overload the circuit breaker. How can I overcome this? K.L.N.

A. Since there is no advantage in having the headlights on when using foglights the answer to this one is to have the foglights wired as a separate circuit. This should include tail and dash lights. In this way the car really has a spare lighting system. It's a great idea. I've used it myself.

Q. About two or three minutes after starting the engine of my car the engine seems to load up. It has no pep, threatens to stall and is inclined to be mixed up in its firing. I've checked the ignition. I don't notice this so much if I immediately press the car into service, but I always figure that it is dangerous. H. McB.

A. This plainly indicates that the choke valve is too slow opening up. You'll find that the heat tube from manifold to the thermostatic coil of the choke control is clogged with carbon.

Q. My car is equipped with a vacuum operated gear shift. Until recently this has been quite satisfactory. Now, however, the car wants to stay in low gear. Even if it gets out of low I notice that it never shifts through to overdrive, staying in high. One mechanic told me to check for leakage around the vacuum controls, but nothing shows up there. Can you suggest anything? H.H.W.

A. You'll find that the engine is idling too fast.

Q. What is wrong when you can push the clutch pedal down to the floor too easily? I've replaced the pedal return spring, but that hasn't changed the situation. K.T.B.

A. The clutch springs are weak. Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern Street, West Hartford, 7, Connecticut, and enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

Interstate League To Resume Crash Hearings Friday

(By The Associated Press)

Len Pillar allowed only nine scattered hits last night as the Harrisburg Senators defeated the York White Roses 9-1 in the Interstate League.

Pillar aided his own cause with a home run with the bases empty in the third inning. The lone York tally came in the fourth inning on a homer from the bat of second baseman Jack Merson.

Left-hander Dick Libby pounded out two doubles as the Sunbury Reds turned back the Hagerstown Owls 5-4 in the only other game played last night.

Libby's second two-base blow broke a 3-3 deadlock in the seventh inning as two runs came across. Hagerstown scored again in the ninth but Libby ended the rally to win his sixth victory of the season.

The Allentown-Lancaster and Trenton-Wilmington games were rained out.

Today's schedule: York at Harrisburg, Hagerstown at Sunbury, Allentown at Lancaster, and Trenton at Wilmington (2).

Duff Is Silent On Director Of Draft

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff is maintaining a strict silence on his choice for the post of selective service director for Pennsylvania.

Duff made this clear when asked last night if he may recommend Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, for the state post. The governor flatly replied he would have no comment to make on the matter at this time.

Mellon is considered a likely prospect for the job in view of his past experience in the post. He served as State Draft Director during World War II from July, 1943, until March, 1945.

The State Selective Service directors will be appointed by President Truman, but he probably will do so upon recommendation by the governors of the states.

Littlestown

According to the June report of the custodian of the Littlestown branch, Adams County Free Library, 126 books and 13 magazines were loaned during the month. There were three new subscribers, two junior and one adult. The following books were received from the main library: "Thunderhead," Mary O'Hara; "The Purple Plain," H. E. Bates; "Clock and Dagger," Ford and MacBain; "The Pearl," Steinbeck; "The Bright Promise," Richard Sherman; "Prince of Foxes," Samuel Shellabarger; "Friendship and Love," Helen MacInnes; and "The Fountainhead," Ayn Rand. The report also states that all the books in the junior section have been replaced by a new lot.

Mrs. H. S. Crouse, South Queen street, during the month gave the following to the branch library: "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter," McCullers, and "As the Earth Turns," Carroll.

Need New Home

The custodian's report also calls attention to the fact that after the first of August, the branch library cannot be housed in its present quarters, the second floor front room of the Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, Veterans of Foreign Wars home on West King street. To date no other room has been found. Any suggestions as to a location will be welcome. Anyone who has or knows of a room in which the branch library can be housed is asked to communicate with Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, president of the Woman's Community club of Littlestown and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Atville C. Hawk, Drexel Hill, Pa., are spending several days with the former's cousin, Edward P. Hawk and family, West King street.

The following have returned from a week at Camp Nakawaka, Brysonia: the Rev. Kenneth D. James, who was a counselor; Kenneth S. James, Leonard Potter, Jr., James Hollinger and Jack Stites.

Clinton O. Sentz, Littlestown, president of the Adams County District POS of A will conduct the installation services in Washington Camp No. 386, Littlestown on Friday at 8 p. m.

Chapter 25

As Hugh and Vince Bonnay strolled along the beach the young naval officer found himself unable to forget the pitiful sob-racked picture of Sonia Deveraux von Proski as she confessed her part in the mysterious occurrences at Kalani. Granted the woman was selfish and weak, still her love for her lost child seemed very genuine.

"Look, Vince, a starfish!" Hugh's urgent tugging at his sleeve brought him back to reality. He watched the odd little man carry the pink encrusted creature to the water's edge and saw that he was collecting the tiny crabs that hid beneath each stone.

"What are you going to do with these?" he said curiously.

"Use them for bait. Lin Gook and I are going fishing soon."

"His happiness was infectious. 'You like it here, eh Hugh?' Vince said.

"Yes, I do," Hugh said seriously.

"Though there aren't as many strange fish as in the Islands. When we left Honolulu Luki was teaching me to go spearfishing. All the natives know how. Here you only do it for salmon."

"Perhaps you'll stay on here for awhile."

Hugh sighed. "I don't know what will become of me now that Sophie and Simon are dead."

Vince's mind was whirling. "They told you about Sophie?"

"No, I just knew somehow. She is dead, isn't she, Vince?"

"Yes," the naval officer said gently. "Sophie's gone, Hugh."

"They're dead," Hugh said lugubriously. "Just like that old fellow there." He picked up a desiccated crab shell and hurled it into the water. "When you're dead nothing matters," he explained.

Vince didn't reply. There had been something in Hugh's voice as matter-of-fact and casual as if he'd been talking about a piece of wood or a broken toy—a thing no longer of use and therefore no longer of interest.

As they neared Kalani a pudgy short man came down the wooden steps to meet them. His genial middle-aged face wrinkled in a friendly smile.

"You are Bonnay," he said with a trace of accent. "And I am Doctor Zendo. My good friend, Johanson, told me I would find you here."

Vince took the muscular hand in his then turned and introduced him to Hugh. The psychiatrist made a funny stiff little bow.

"Ah, Mr. Mannley, I am delighted to make your acquaintance."

Hugh giggled nervously. "Everyone calls me Hugh."

"Very well, Hugh it shall be. I like that better too, I am Jan."

The skin around Zendo's eyes formed tiny fleshy rolls that curved together and hid the piercing appraisal that Vince had glimpsed for a second.

"I came over to persuade Whitey to take a fishing trip next week but he seems too busy to discuss it. So I'll fish with you and the Chinese, Hugh."

Hugh stared at him. "Do you know how to fish and hunt?"

"My dear fellow, I am a Finn, of course I know these things!"

"Finland! Then you must have seen reindeer!" Hugh exclaimed. He took Zendo's arm leading him toward the pier. "Come then," he urged. "You must tell me about them." With childish thoughtlessness he forgot Vince.

A murmur of voices reached Vince from Sophie's gazebo. Through a gap in the matted canopy of rambling roses he caught the bright sunny glint of Julia's hair. But the voice he heard was John Bissett's. It was passionate.

"Julia, this is the first chance I've had to talk with you alone."

"What is it, John? Have you found something for the police?"

"No, nothing like that. It's about you, Julia. His voice shook. 'You need me now, Julia, you're all alone, you need someone to look after you.'"

"I don't think I'll be able to afford a secretary," Julia teased.

"Don't joke! I love you, Julia. . . I want to marry you."

"Are you sure it's love?" Her voice was kind yet steady. "Perhaps it's just the fact that we've been around each other so much."

"No, no," he protested sharply. "Believe me, Julia, I know."

"John, it's a great honor to have someone ask you to marry me. I appreciate that. But when I marry I want to be passionately in love. I want to love him so much that I'd follow him to the ends of the earth if he asked me to. . . I—I'm afraid I just don't feel that way about you, John."

"That's just a romantic storybook notion, Julia. It's silly."

"No, it isn't John. Anyway it's how I feel."

Bissett's tone was suspicious. "Are you in love with someone else?"

She answered slowly. "It would certainly be one-sided if I were."

"It's Bonnay, isn't it?"

Vince's heart gave a queer startled jump; every nerve seemed to tingle as he strained to catch her reply.

"What makes you say that, John?"

Bissett's voice rose angrily. "You've hung on everything he said as though it weren't remarkable. Don't think I haven't seen you watching him!"

"That's ridiculous! Anyway there's no point in discussing it—Vince Bonnay doesn't seem to know that I'm alive."

"You've been trying hard enough to make him aware of you!"

"Please John, don't let's quarrel—there's too much happening."

Ears burning Vince tiptoed toward the house; he couldn't suppress a delighted grin at what he'd heard, but the sight of Duke snoring angrily from the game room started him. He went inside and faced John Bissett.

"What have you been doing to Duke?" he asked. "He looked upset."

"Asking him about his quarrel with Mannley which you overheard."

The words dismayed Vince. So much had happened since he'd forgotten it.

"Did he give any explanation?"

Johanson's lips tightened. "He was almost too frank. Unbelievably so."

Chapter 26

Kalani's spacious freezing unit was a long room lined with menacing meat hooks and Spartan-white enamel lockers. Located beneath the pantry it was reached by narrow steps beneath the service stairs to the left wing.

As Vince and Julia made their way down the rubber-treaded steps she looked back at him with an amused quirk pulling at her lips.

"Johanson is certainly a surprising individual. I had no idea that he'd given Lin Gook any grouse to put in the freezing unit."

"Well, so much happened the night of his arrival I suppose he forgot to mention it. Damn glad he finally remembered it though."

"So am I. There's nothing like stuffed grouse with wild rice and some of Lin Gook's chestnut gravy."

"Stop it, you'll have me drooling," Vince laughed.

The massive automatic lock on the refrigerator room door responded instantly to Julia's light touch and they entered leaving the door ajar.

"Look Vince, here are Johanson's grouse," Julia walked to the far end. "Aren't they beautiful creatures? It seems a pity to kill them." She ran her fingers caressingly over their sepia breast feathers.

"Too, beautiful. An unusual color too, very intriguing."

Something in his tone made her turn. "You're not looking at the grouse!"

"That's right. I find it rather difficult keeping my mind on game birds when a bird of brighter plumage is standing right beside me."

"You make such pretty speeches, Vince, but I never know if you mean them or if it's just the natural gallantry of a southerner." Her voice was wistful.

"Don't you? Well, perhaps actions will speak louder than words."

Slowly he drew her toward him; her arms stole around his neck and her lips were firm and fresh and responsive to his. For one miraculous moment Kalani with its atmosphere of fear and suspicion faded into the background.

Vince stared down into pupils grown enormous with emotion.

"How was that, Julia?" he whispered.

"Wonderful! Do it again!"

He laughed. "You're a shameless hussy," he told her. "A brazen woman, but I love you for it and I'm taking you at your word."

He repeated the kiss, this time with more skill and certainty of her response. Unconsciously as their lips drew apart he was aware of a sharp clack and the encompassing darkness as the brilliant lights went out.

"Vince! . . . the lights! . . . they've gone out!"

There was terror in her voice. "What's wrong with that?" he soothed.

"You don't understand—the lights are controlled by the opening and closing of the door. Someone has shut it— we're locked in!"

Her body trembled against his. The stygian blackness seemed to drape itself around them like a velvet curtain, sound-proof and impenetrable.

Vince squeezed Julia's hand and with the other groped his way to the door, a door he remembered now as being of steel with heavy rubber stripping and a devilishly efficient automatic unbreakable lever on the outside.

"Keep your chin up, Julia. . . Johanson knows we came down here—he'll investigate if we're not back shortly."

He tried to make his voice reassuring but Julia didn't answer and he knew she was wondering if Johanson would give them another thought. He had no reason to worry about them. . . he wasn't waiting for their return.

"Keep moving," he ordered. "Got to keep our circulation going."

"That shouldn't be hard to do—it's merely thirty degrees in here."

Julia moved her legs and beat her arms together while he hurried himself at the door. The metal was icy and unresponsive; he'd never felt so thoroughly inadequate. Let's try yelling, he suggested desperately.

"Anything to oblige," Julia laughed. "What will it be?"

"Know any Navy yells? They're easy and they've got rhythm."

He recited a few and they screamed them in unison again and again.

Nothing happened. It was getting late. . . they'd be preparing for dinner upstairs now, wouldn't they? Something seemed to have happened to his watch, it said only five o'clock!

"Vince, I've got to stop," Julia panted beside him. "I'm so tired. . ."

"We've got to keep on. . . mustn't get chilled. . . they'll come for us soon."

He was beginning to feel a terrible consuming need for rest too. If he could only stop for a few minutes, just shut his eyes and sleep briefly.

A sob escaped Julia's clenched lips. She swayed and sagged against him. "None of that!" he said sharply. "Here let's get to the door."

He had noticed a long cardboard packing box containing waxed cases for holding frozen food. Now he moved it against the door and straddling it sat down and pulled Julia down next to him so that she was sitting in the hollow made by his legs and leaning back against his chest. He began rubbing her wrists briskly but the motion seemed to require enormous effort. I must keep on, he thought and the idea pounded against his brain like a tiny hammer.

He buried his face in the soft hollow between her neck and shoulder.

"Julia," he whispered. "I love you. . . I want you to know that."

It seemed terribly important that she realize his feeling for her. He was nodding. His chin rested heavily on her shoulder. "I love you," he said again. "Always remember, Julia."

Vaguely he wished she would answer him but then he couldn't expect that when she was breathing so quietly. . . so rhythmically? Not when she was sleeping. . . sleeping. . . sleeping.

Chapter 27

Vince Bonnay stretched lazily and the sudden sharp pull of tender shoulder muscles made him cry out. His eyes flew open in sheer astonishment.

He was in his own bed and across the room by the window, hunched over like a gargoyle was Johanson in Vince's dressing gown. He looked anxious.

Vince chuckled. "Have you been my guardian angel all night, Johanson?"

The investigator frowned. "You had us worried, or rather Julia did. . . she's been hovering over you like a mother hen. Doc Zendo said you'd recover though when we got you thawed out."

"Guess the cold made me doze off. Is Julia O.K.?"

"Right as rain. You did a good job of keeping her warm," his grin bordered on a leer. "We just got you in time, however."

Vince's jaws tightened. Freezing to death in a cold storage room was hardly a desirable death. "What made you look there?" he asked.

"Well I suddenly remembered you hadn't told me about your walk with Hugh Mannley and I wanted the details. Then I remembered where you were and went down to look for you. I almost hesitated for fear of breaking up a romantic interlude but my prying instincts led me on." He grinned wryly.

"So the murderer is still in business?" Vince commented.

"I don't know. . . you see Bissett admits to shutting you in there."

"Judas Priest!" Vince swore explosively.

"Says it was an accident. He went down to get some squash raquets out of the trunk room, saw the refrigerator door ajar and closed it. He had seen Luki and the cook in the kitchen and had no reason to think anyone inside."

"And you believe him?"

"It's one of those things no one can prove. He's probably jealous of you but I don't think he'd go as far as murder, not Julia's anyway. And we know he didn't kill Mannley or his sister. You provided his alibi for the time of Mannley's death when you said you heard him snoring next door."

"Then you think Sophie's death was premeditated?"

"I don't know. It seems incredible that the murderer could have depended on her standing by the swimming pool at the exact moment he was waiting in Hugh's room with the bow and arrow. I think it was just a lucky break."

Groaning as his stiffened muscles rebelled Vince staggered into the bathroom and turned on the shower. A cloud of steam enveloped him.

"What I don't savvy," he said. "Is why Mannley asked me to butt into his little mystery. . . the stolen money, I mean. It wouldn't have been so hot for him if I'd dug up that drug traffic business, or maybe too hot."

"The explanation is simple enough. Mannley was a sadist of the worst type. He had a depraved sense of humor. Nothing would have given him greater delight than to learn a friend or relative was a thief and hold the fact over the poor wretch's head for the rest of his days. You were to be the tool for making it public."

Vince glared at his own reflection. . . how could he have been so obtuse!

"Good Lord! The masochistic old goat!"

"Damned if this case isn't getting me down, Bonnay."

Vince studied the investigator covertly and a bit uncertainly.

"I don't think we're going about this thing in the right way."

"We?" The accent was biting. Johanson's eyes were like fire opals.

"The editorial WE. We don't know the motive for Mannley's murder yet."

"Motive! Hell, everybody in this house had a motive and a damn good one! It seems to me Mannley spent his entire lifetime making potential enemies."

"That's just what I'm getting at. They all had a motive and have for some time—some for years—Sophie was the only one with a new reason, and she's been eliminated himself, so that lets her out."

"What are you getting at now?"

"I think some occurrence the day I got here brought about the crime," Vince mused. "Some outside influence."

"Don't you consider yourself an outside influence?" Johanson said dryly.

"That remark isn't funny!" Vince's voice was dangerously soft.

Johanson grinned. "All right, let's eliminate you. What else happens?"

Vince shut his eyes. His arrival seemed such a long time ago. He drew on his cigarette and described his trip again in detail.

"—Then we stopped for a package of mail and brought it out," he said.

"Mail?" Johanson echoed solemnly. "Did you see any of it?"

"Only the top letter postmarked 'Honolulu' and addressed to Luki."

"You didn't see the addresses before the letters were distributed?"

"No-o-o, but wait. . . Bissett did. He must have read them all!"

Johanson began pacing the mulberry rug. "Suppose there was something in one of those letters," he said jerkily. "Suppose it contained some disclosure more emotionally earth-shaking to the recipient than Sophie's discovery about Eric Branson! Suppose it made the murderer act that very night!"

"How would we know? He's undoubtedly disposed of it by this time."

"Perhaps, but since the morning of Simon Mannley's death all the waste paper has been collected and examined; all incoming mail has been read, and people seldom throw personal letters away until they've answered them. If Bissett can only remember! He must! He should have a neat clerical type of mind!"

"Well, suppose you quiz him," Vince suggested. "Frankly, after last night's experience, the less I see of John Bissett the better."

PRESIDENTIAL "DEALS" RULED OUT BY STASSEN

Trenton, N. J., May 1 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen says he will make no deals to win the Republican nomination for president.

Winding up his two-day invasion of New Jersey, he said Thursday that if he fails to win the nomination he will "go on battling for the issues in which I believe."

Stassen said flatly he would refuse to accept the vice presidential nomination on a ticket with Gov. Dewey of New York, but declined comment on whether he would take second place to Sen. Robert A. Taft or Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Pleased In Jersey

"That's a matter for the future," he said.

Highly pleased by his New Jersey visit, Stassen brought it to a close Thursday at the Clarksboro farm of Amos J. Peaselee, his eastern states manager. Today he was to move on to Rhode Island.

Although Stassen said some of New Jersey's 35 delegates to the Republican National convention had pledged support to him, most party leaders were noncommittal on his bid for support here. They confined themselves to statements that he was a "great campaigner" or a "forthright personality."

"Friendliest Neutrality"

But after a two-hour talk with the Jersey delegates, alternates and party leaders at a luncheon here Thursday, Stassen said: "It was the friendliest neutrality I've ever experienced."

Looking out the window of his hotel suite, he added: "It's a little overcast outside, but to me it's a bright day in New Jersey."

Last night he told a gathering of editors and publishers the world situation had brightened in the last six months because Communist efforts to paralyze France and Italy had failed, and added:

Lewisburg Prisoner Claims Faulty Trial

Lewisburg, Pa., May 1 (AP)—A convicted war-time espionage agent pleaded for his freedom from prison on the grounds that his war-time trial was unlawful.

The prisoner, Karl Krantz, of Rochester, N. Y., made the plea at a hearing yesterday before Federal Judge Frederick V. Pollmer.

Judge Pollmer, after hearing testimony from both Krantz and five agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he would decide on the matter at a later date.

Krantz was one of 33 defendants in a mass espionage trial early in World War II. He was found guilty of espionage and conspiracy and sentenced to eight years in prison.

Find My Killer

Chapter 19

"Are you really all right, Jack?" was the first thing J. D. asked me next morning.

"I could be worse," I reassured her. "But I'm not wasting time in bed, being sorry for myself. You said the truth last night — we've got a very dangerous murderer to find, without being murdered ourselves."

"Let's think about those false clues used in the frameup," she said, all business at once. "You know about them, not me. List them."

I did so and she wrote down a list. It read like this:

Button from coat dropped in gun room; threatening letter in book at S. home; phone call by Oporto; Sickie trap to hurt Pettigrew.

"That first item's the simplest," said J. D. "The button came from a suit Dr. Stokes didn't wear the day of Ealing's murder, but he did wear it two days later. Remember the inquest?"

"Very well indeed," I nodded. "Several people were near him. Diane Ealing, her boy friends Kuhl, the Pettigrews — they were all at the inquest, too."

"One of them got the button," she elaborated. "And chucked it into the gun room, to be found and used against Dr. Stokes. What's next? The letter, yes."

"That's a plainer piece of fake evidence," I said, "because the only finger prints on it were mine. Earlier prints must have been rubbed off, carefully and completely, with an eraser. It can also be detected — the erasing job — if you're looking for it."

"We'll try to get it back from the police and make sure," said J. D. I produced the wadded envelope with the nail in it. "This was what the sickies hung on in Pettigrew's tool shed. We probably know what there is to know."

"The phone call to tip you off was false evidence, too," J. D. took up the list again.

"It was somebody steering us — you — to a clue against Dr. Stokes," said J. D. "The planted letter, of course."

"I think the accent was faked," I said. "Then it was Kuhl or Pettigrew. They're the only male voices among our suspects. As for the letter itself —"

"You and I agree that it wasn't a letter to Dr. Stokes, but to someone else. And who would get that kind of letter from Richard Ealing? Not his yardman Pettigrew, surely."

"But Kuhl would," I said. "Ealing would have every reason to tell him to lay off. And, hey. That piece of note paper wasn't whole. Part of it — maybe half — was cut away. Because that part would have called Kuhl by name."

"Now, where else could the evidence point?"

"Diane Ealing acts as if she's in."

I may coax something out of her." Driving out to Ealing's, I wondered how it would affect Mrs. Pettigrew when she opened the door and saw that hashed up face of mine. But she didn't open the door — Diane Ealing did, smiling that smile of hers she seemed to put time and thought into it.

We went together into the parlor. "What have you to tell me?" asked Diane Ealing.

"I was hoping that you might tell me a few things," I said. Some of the things, perhaps, that you've managed so far to hold out on me."

"Do you think I murdered my husband?"

"I wouldn't fool you," I said. "You're not my chief suspect. You're maybe number two or three or four."

"Well then, who is —" But she stopped short without asking the rest of that one.

"What were you going to ask?" I told her, "is who's my number one suspect. Am I right?" She said nothing and I went on. "You stopped asking me right in the middle, because all at once you knew who he was."

"Let's forget James Kuhl," she said, and smiled. It wasn't her usual smile.

"I'm remembering James Kuhl," I said, "and everything about him. He framed Dr. Stokes. Who else could and who else would? I don't have to tell you the things that point to him for that, because I don't have to convince you. And why would he do it except to take the heat off of himself?"

"Jim was with me," she said hurriedly. "Dick and I had had a quarrel about Jim. It was enough of a quarrel so that I left the house and drove to town. I met Jim and we talked it over — the quarrel and the other things. We were together every minute of the time."

"That would be swell," I said, "if he himself hadn't said something different."

"Did you talk to him?" she demanded. I hadn't, of course, but I nodded and made my mouth tight. "He — he was trying to shield me."

I went right on improvising on my own hook. "Not quite, Diane. Because he told me that he'd tried to get in touch with you that afternoon and couldn't. You were out, he said."

"And who else heard him say this?" she demanded.

"Nobody else," I answered, careless with my lying for the first time. "Now admit it. You weren't with him on the afternoon of the murder."

She got up from the divan and moved around the coffee table. Turning to face me, she dipped her right hand into the front of her blouse and it came out holding her number of that pair of derringers. She pointed it at me and drew back the hammer with her thumb.

"Stand up," she ordered me. I sat still on the divan and gaped. She put her left hand up and tugged at her hair and it came tumbling down. Then she ripped the collar of her blouse away from her shoulder. She hooked a finger under the exposed strap of her brassiere and broke it.

"You aren't going to do this thing to Jim Kuhl. I'll kill you, and when Pettigrew hears the shot and runs in I'll say that you tried to attack me."

TITO NAMED DELEGATE TO RED CONGRESS

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, July 1 (AP)—

The First Proletarian Division of the Yugoslav army elected Premier Marshal Tito a delegate today to the Fifth Communist Party Congress, where Yugoslavia's political future may well be decided.

The Yugoslav Party Congress is to be held here July 21. In a program for the event published yesterday in the party newspaper Borba, the Yugoslav Communist Central Committee upheld Yugoslav independence and called for a Balkan bloc of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania.

In a telegram today to the same committee, Slovenia's central committee rejected charges against Tito and his chief lieutenants published Monday by the Cominform.

It is clear, the Slovenian committee said, that "we cannot be shaken for a moment in our confidence in our leadership, the central committee and Tito."

The army division's action and the committee's telegram backed up Tito in the face of the condemnation of his policies by the Cominform (Communist international information bureau).

Borba reported that messages from the army and the party are manifesting unity and "unlimited confidence" in the present Yugoslav leadership.

The paper said Yugoslav soldiers greet Tito, founder and supreme commander of the army, and hail the "heroic central committee," which it pictured as strengthening Socialism and the country's economy.

The division that chose Tito to represent it at the party Congress was the first unit he formed in 1941, when he was a guerrilla leader. It stayed with him throughout the war.

In announcing his selection, the division said that under his leadership it and the whole army had traversed "a long and glorious road."

Borba said the central committee of the Yugoslav Communist party did not know of the Cominform resolution until it heard it broadcast by the Prague radio.

The paper called upon Bulgarian leaders to remember the close ties between Yugoslavia and Bulgaria and consider these ties in the light of the unity now being shown in Yugoslavia.

It said the people of Yugoslavia got real help from the Red army. Without that army, it said, no country in Europe would have been liberated or kept its independence in the postwar period.

But unlike other countries, Borba added, the Yugoslavs got help from the Russians after 39 months of fighting on their own in a force of 300,000 that liberated great expanses of Yugoslav territory.

The Slovenian central committee said the Bolshevik (Russian Communist) party accused Yugoslav leaders unjustly. But it added the accusations had not shaken their respect for that party.

There are an estimated 23 million home sewing enthusiasts in the United States.

An estimated 169 millions of patterns were sold in 1947.

Justice of the Peace Joseph Pacholli yesterday fined 12 men $25 and costs each for possession of untaxed cigarettes. The men had been arrested by S. J. Parker of the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue and state police on the William Penn Highway between Bethlehem and Easton.

THE GETTYSBURG TIMES, THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1948

Democrats To Insist That Eisenhower "Refuse" To Be Drafted For Office

WILL BE PLACED IN NOMINATION AT CONVENTION

(By The Associated Press)

President Truman fired three new broadsides at the Republican-controlled 80th Congress as the din of anti-Truman firing within the Democratic party grew louder today.

Bills left behind by the departed lawmakers provided the Chief Executive with ammunition for his latest blasts.

He signed appropriation measures for the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Interior Department, plus a separate bill dealing with the Virgin Islands—but only after whipping out separate statements critical of what he regarded as major defects in each one.

Just ahead of that action yesterday, Mr. Truman took time out for a huddle with Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath, who is calling signals for the party's convention due to open a week from Monday in Philadelphia.

General Discussion

McGrath told newsmen he and the President "talked about every phase of the Democratic situation currently being talked about in the newspapers."

That seemed to make it clear that the name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower figured in the White House strategy session.

Senator Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina came back from a 45-minute talk with Eisenhower in New York earlier this week to report that he is "more convinced than ever" that the Columbia university president is the Democrats' "man of the hour."

Another southern Democrat, Lt. Gov. Handy Ellis of Alabama—who will head his state's delegation to the Philadelphia convention—said at Mobile earlier in the day he would be "tickled to death" to propose Eisenhower at the start of the nominating roll call. But he added that he will yield to Texas—the general's native state—or to Kansas—his official residence.

"Absolute Refusal"

Ellis insisted that only an absolute refusal from Eisenhower will prevent his name from going before the convention ahead of any one else.

One high party official here said that is exactly what most party bigwigs expect—a flat statement from the general that he could not be drafted.

This official, who declined to be quoted by name, said all the planning is being made on the assumption that Eisenhower will not be a serious contender for the Presidential nomination.

ocratic national committee members urging them to try to persuade Mr. Truman to withdraw in favor of the former chief of staff.

The general himself came back to Washington briefly. He appeared before a closed session of the Herbert Hoover commission studying reorganization of the government, had luncheon with Secretary of Defense Forrestal at the Pentagon and then flew back to New York late yesterday.

Another possible Truman rival when the Democrats gather in Philadelphia is Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. In Los Angeles, State Democratic Chairman James Roosevelt didn't mention either name. But he did tell reporters that the wait-and-see attitude adopted by California's 54-vote delegation is stirring widespread interest.

But some of the delegates are holding out for Mr. Truman. Attorney Henry I. Dockweiler, insisted that the delegation's nominal pledge is binding "until the chief releases us" and added: "It would not benefit the party to nominate anyone else. President Truman is our titular leader and we must stand on his record, win or lose."

And while Mr. Truman was finding new fault with Congress, Rep. Hugh D. Scott of Pennsylvania was telling reporters at Philadelphia he regards his designation as Republican national chairman as a new compliment to the lawmakers' record.

Scott said his party will conduct one of the "cleanest campaigns in history" in behalf of Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Earl Warren of California.

Dewey, meanwhile, returned to passport frauds was expected to go to the jury sometime today.

The two men—former U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin and Warren J. Belcher, former head of the Philadelphia passport office—have both denied the conspiracy charges.

The 45-year-old Griffin testified on the eighth day of the trial yesterday that he allowed faked papers for Chinese to pass his desk because he regarded them as another set of people being "kicked around."

He asserted he "didn't get a nickel" for acceptance of falsified reports from subordinates.

Belcher had testified previously that he accepted $10 tips from Chinese for handling passport applications for Chinese on about 60 occasions. He said he was probably guilty of "wrongdoing" in accepting the tips but denied any conspiracy.

Indicted with Griffin and Belcher were three Chinese interpreters—

John Lee, Oscar Hoh, and Lee Hoy. Lee and Hoh changed their pleas to guilty as the trial began. Hoy disappeared before the trial and is said to be in China.

NO RULING YET ON ELECTION PAY

Harrisburg, May 1 (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Department maintained hands-off policy today on the controversial question of whether the 1947 Legislature reduced the pay of election officials in some counties.

Gene Smith, deputy secretary of the commonwealth, said the department can take no stand on the issue unless it receives a formal request from county authorities and so far none has been made.

"I personally feel it is strained to say that the new law prevents any county from paying more than $6 for judges of election and inspectors and $3 for clerks for districts with 100 or less votes," Smith said.

"If you carried that reasoning to its conclusion, you could say where is the authority to the commissioners to pay anything," Smith said.

He made the comment in connection with the ruling of the solicitor of Lehigh county that the new law repealed the authority of county commissioners to fix the pay of election officials and therefore made the new minima the maximum. In that county, the pay formerly was $10 and some officials threatened to walk out last Tuesday due to the cut.

About three million people left American farms for cities between 1940 and 1947.

DENTISTS TOLD OF NEW WEAPON

Pittsburgh, May 1 (AP)—About 500 dentists were told Thursday they can cut down tooth decay in children with a new painless weapon—fluorine compound applied to the surface of the teeth.

They were told this by Dr. Francis A. Arnold, Jr., of the U. S. Public Health Service at Bethesda, Md., at the conference on preventive and public health. The session was sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh School and the Western Pennsylvania Odontological Society.

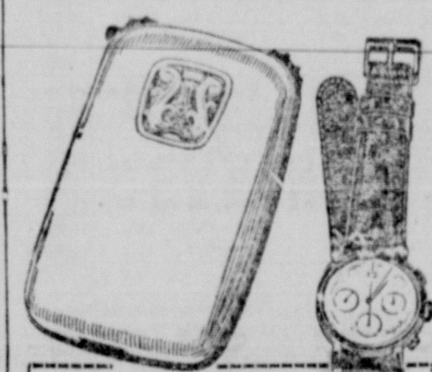

Dr. Arnold said experiments showed a two per cent solution of sodium fluoride painted on clean teeth is more effective in preventing decay. He recommended a minimum of four applications at intervals of about a

The annual Mother and Daughter social of Trinity Lutheran congregation, in observance of Mothers' Day, will take place Tuesday evening, May 4, at the church building.

The effect, he said, may last three years, after which application should be repeated.

People who have grown up in areas where the drinking water contains one part per million of the fluorides have only one-third as many tooth cavities, Dr. Arnold declared.

He added that treatment with mouthwashes and dentifrices containing fluorides had shown no effect on tooth decay and warned that a two per cent solution of sodium fluoride, if swallowed, might be dangerous.

Gold Mine Stock Promoter Sought

Philadelphia, May 1 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Securities commission obtained a warrant for the arrest of a Canadian gold mine stock promoter it accuses of mulcting a Pennsylvania man of $15,000.

The warrant for the arrest of Albert E. DePalma, former Brooklyn automobile salesman, was issued yesterday by Magistrate Jacob Dugole.

However, PSC investigators said DePalma now is believed to be in Toronto, Canada, and under Canadian-American extradition agreements can not be extradited for stock frauds.

DePalma was arrested last December in New York on fraud charges but jumped bond of $50,000 and presumably fled to Canada.

The latest charges grew out of accusations filed in depositions by Howard K. Bohr, a PSC investigator. These depositions accused DePalma of mulcting George H. Llewellyn of Philadelphia through securities sales.

TANKERS KEEP STEELMEN BUSY

New York, May 1 (AP) — Necessity for tankers has put Bethlehem Steel corporation shipbuilding back in good shape, Chairman Eugene Grace disclosed.

The nation's second largest steel corporation reported orders or awards for 17 big tankers with a total selling value of $100,000,000.

Grace told a news conference Thursday he had figured ship construction about finished but the new business would provide a couple of good years for the corporation's shipyards. And he anticipates more orders ahead.

Bethlehem's quarterly meeting prior to the news conference reported net income of the company at $15,499,331 equal to $1.55 a common share for the first quarter compared with $16,090,426 or $1.61 for the same period last year. A dividend of 60 cents a share was declared on common, payable June 1 to stock of record May 10.

Grace said the lesser income was earned despite 25 per cent more business during the quarter. First quarter steel-producing operations averaged 95.2 per cent of capacity compared with 103.8 per cent in the previous quarter and 98 per cent in the first quarter last year.

FRANKLIN COIN IN CIRCULATION

Philadelphia, May 1 (AP) — A new half-dollar, honoring Benjamin Franklin, went into circulation Friday.

The coin, designed by the late John Sinnock who sculptured the Roosevelt dime and Purple Heart medal, is the idea of mint director Millie Tayloe Ross.

"It is really appropriate that the Franklin half-dollar becomes a reality at this time," said Mrs. Ross. "He was the great apostle of thrift and his picture on a coin should remind people that in this time of world unrest it would be a good policy to husband our resources."

The Franklin coin is the first U. S. half-dollar to display anything except the American eagle on the reverse side, Mrs. Ross said. On the reverse side of the coin is a picture of the Liberty bell.

"But," she added, "in order to conform with the law a small scale eagle was inscribed next to the 'E. Pluribus Unum' seal."

Church Services

Services at Elias Evangelical Lutheran church Sunday, July 4th: Sunday school 9:30 a. m., Holy Communion 10:30 a. m.

Lloyd S. Fite and Mary Idella Ovelman were united in marriage on Sunday, June 26, at 5 p. m. in the parsonage of Elias Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. Philip Bower.

The Emmitsburg Vacation Church school closed a successful two weeks session with an interesting program which was presented in the Lutheran Parish hall by the classes Sunday night, June 27th, at 7:30. The school opened Monday, June 14th, with an enrollment of 146 and an attendance of 128. The enrollment at the close was 178 and the daily attendance the second week was over 150 each day. Attendance awards and a point system of awards was introduced and an unusually large number received perfect attendance certificates and awards for earning five points and more. Three grand awards and three second grand awards were made to those earning the highest and second highest number of points.

First grand awards went to: Edna Zimmerman, Kathryn Plank and Robert Fuss. Second grand awards went to: George Eyster, Sharon Hewitt and Evangeline Grim. The organization of the school was Rev. Philip Bower, director; Mrs. Thomas Bollinger, secretary and registrar; Carolyn McDonnell, pianist, and Mrs. Adam Grim, leader of music; teachers: Mrs. Lewis Bell, Mrs. Thomas Bollinger, Nancy Beegle, Miss Grace Rowe, Mrs. Benjamin Ogle, Mrs. C. C. Combs, Mrs. Robert Gillelan, Mrs. Philip Bower, William Simpson, the Rev. Adam Grim; teachers' helpers: Sue Hays, Polly Ann Knox, Shirley Troxell, Carolyn McDonnell, Dian Shuff.

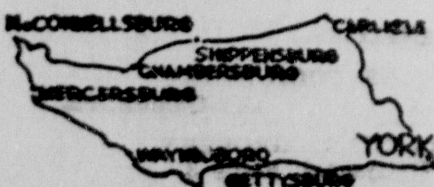

Will Hold Next Year

It was decided to continue the school next year. All this year's teachers and helpers indicated a willingness to help again next year. About six more teachers will be needed next year in order to reduce the size of the classes and thus do better work. The total expense of the school was $127.07. Offerings and contributions amounted to $108.35 during the school. Those who provided transportation were: C. A. Harner, Miss Ruth Gillelan, William Simpson, Rev. Adam Grim, Rev. Philip Bower, Mrs. Alice Crist, Greta Keilholtz, William Gillelan, Mrs. John Fissell and a number of people from Toms Creek Methodist church. The small children were served milk each day and the entire school was treated to ice cream and pretzels the last day of the school. The service on Sunday night was well attended and all were highly pleased with the exhibition of the work done.

A bus to take cherry pickers to the orchards will come to Emmitsburg Tuesday morning, July 6. The bus will be from the Musselman company, Orrtanna. If there are sufficient pickers two buses will be used. Arrangements are being made through the Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of Elias Lutheran church. All who wish to go on the bus will report at the Center square, Tuesday morning.

MARKETING with Marjorie

To set forth a perfect picnic spread on the Fourth, be sure to take along all the little treats that make picnics such big treats! They'll be easy to make if you follow the recipes below... and the cost will be easy to take if you buy the ingredients at your thrifty A&P. It's a picnicers' paradise!

MAYONNAISE YOU'LL PRAISE

For a patriotic picnic salad, combine fresh strawberries, pineapple and blueberries. And for a bang-up dressing to go with it, add 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped, to 1/2 cup A&P's creamy-smooth ANN PAGE MAYONNAISE. This salad is delicious as a dessert, too, served with the brownies or spice drops I'm going to give you the recipes for now.

WHITE HOUSE BROWNIES

Melt 2 sqs. unsweetened chocolate over hot water, remove from heat and add 1 cup sugar, 2 unbeaten eggs, 1/2 cup A&P's double-rich WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED MILK (undiluted), 1/2 cup sifted flour, 1/2 cup chopped nut meats, 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Stir well, pour into greased 8-in. sq. pan, and bake in moderate oven, 350° F., 35 mins. Makes sixteen 2-in. squares.

TOPS IN SPICE DROPS

Melt 3/4 cup shortening, add 1 cup molasses and 2 beaten eggs. Stir well. Sift 2 1/2 cups of A&P's fine SUNNYFIELD FAMILY FLOUR with 4 tps. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. soda, 1/4 tsp. cloves, 1/4 tsp. cinnamon and 1/4 tsp. ginger. Add half these dry ingredients and beat well. Add other half and 1/2 cup milk alternately, beating well after each addition. Add 1/2 tsp. lemon extract. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven, 375° F., 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 1 dozen.

FIRST FOR THIRST

Parched picnicers always go for grape juice... especially rich, tangy A&P GRAPE JUICE. So pack plenty of this thirst quenching in your picnic basket. It's grand mixed with ginger ale... and a grand A&P value!

PHILADELPHIA CITY OFFICIAL WILL NOT QUIT

Philadelphia, July 1 (AP) — W. Frank Marshall today disregarded a new demand that he resign as receiver of taxes, declaring: "I'll stay until the cows come home."

The Committee of Fifteen demanded his resignation in a resolution adopted yesterday, asserting there was "irrefutable evidence" that conditions in Marshall's office were such as to prevent any public confidence in his continued administration.

Among things in the office, the committee said it found:

"1. Criminal embezzlement of public funds by employees.
"2. Widespread negligence and carelessness in administration.
"3. Unjustified and inexcusable absenteeism by employees in this department."

"Failure To Collect Taxes"
"4. Patent and rank failure to collect taxes owing to the city of Philadelphia in the estimated sum of $7,000,000."

The Committee of Fifteen previously had demanded the resignation of Charles H. Grakelaw as director of the Department of Supplies and Purchases — and Mayor Bernard Samuel complied by firing him.

Both Marshall's office and that of the Department of Supplies and Purchases are under grand jury investigation for alleged tax shortages.

Meanwhile, there were two other developments yesterday:

The Committee of Fifteen was told by two city officials that the city had lost millions of dollars in water rents since 1942 because of

East Berlin

East Berlin — Mrs. Gladys Boyer Camilleri, Paradise township, was granted a divorce last week from Edward Camilleri, York county, to whom she was married 13 years ago. The decree was made in York. Mrs. Camilleri is a graduate of the local high school and a registered nurse.

Lester Hurley, Sunbury, was a recent visitor here to his wife and daughters. Mr. Hurley has now returned to Sunbury where he is in the hotel business.

Mrs. John Haar has returned to her R. 2 home after her recent operation at the Hanover hospital. Mrs. Haar is reported improving although she will remain for some time under treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sowers observed their 30th wedding anniversary during the past week. Mrs. Sowers is the former Miss Mary Elsenhart, daughter of Mrs. Maude Lapham Elsenhart and the late Charles Elsenhart. The couple has no children.

Mrs. Archie D. Himes is reported improving after a serious illness. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Breighner, Conewago Park, has been named Gayle Louise.

The Rev. Snyder Alleman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church for the past seven years, will leave this week to accept the pastorate at Frankfort. The Rev. Mr. Alleman preached a farewell sermon to his congregation on Sunday morning.

Harold R. Shetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Shetter, a student laxness in Marshall's office. Raphael I. Monks, 63-year old tax consultant, collapsed as he was about to be called before the grand jury and was carried in a stretcher to Osteopathic hospital. He has been under $10,000 bail on charges of embezzlement, conspiracy and fraudulent conversion.

at Columbia university, New York city, will leave this week to spend the summer at Casco Lake, Maine, as athletic instructor at a boy's camp. His brother Fred, who recently returned after a year in China doing U. S. government work, has left for Allentown to accept a position with RCO. Mrs. Richard Knapp, Pinksburg, Md., the former Miss Sylvia M. Eberly, R. 1, is spending a part of the summer pursuing a course at Shipensburg State Teachers' college from which she was graduated in 1946. Mrs. Knapp teaches at West-summer.

Teachers' association conducted its first benefit carnival on Saturday evening at the local high school campus. Several large trees at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine J. Tierney were severely damaged by the violent storm of Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Reynolds have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Warren Kellow, with Mr. Kellow and children Nancy and Billy, Easton. According to tradition Charlemagne had an asbestos tablecloth that was cleaned by throwing it into the fire.

NEW TECHNIQUE IS NEEDED FOR CONVENTIONS

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, July 1 (AP) — It's about time politicians got a new technique for their political conventions.

It would be a lot easier on the human beings who go to them if the speeches were fewer and shorter.

The present method, repeated every four years, is old-fashioned and tiresome: long speeches and wild demonstrations that don't mean anything.

The late "Fats" Waller, the fat and happy piano player, used to sing a piece called "The Joint is Jumpin'."

It describes the Republican convention in Philadelphia on the night of Wednesday, June 23, the night of the nominating speeches.

What happened then may have impressed somebody listening over a radio. It didn't win any votes for anyone.

Starting at 9 p.m. and ending around 4 o'clock in the morning, the names of the would-be candidates for president were placed in nomination.

Too Many Speeches

That meant seven hours of speech-making and demonstrating, far beyond the time when everyone there wished he were in bed.

The speechmaking would have been tough enough and tiresome enough if that was all that had happened.

But there were the demonstrations in between. They lasted anywhere from four or five minutes to more than a half hour of screaming, jumping, parading through the aisles, waving banners.

If you were home, listening to it over your radio, you might have thought each parade after a nomination was a spontaneous outburst of joy, all very sudden, for the candidate just placed in nomination. It wasn't.

For example: A swarm of people waited for hours in the basement so they could go upstairs at the right time and put on, or join in, the demonstration for Harold E. Stassen when his name was placed in nomination. They carried huge Stassen to give color to their performance when it started.

It Meant Little

All that happened on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning. But nobody at that time could be swept up in emotion to cast a single ballot for anyone. The reason: The voting itself did not, and

Burglar Takes Bath, Then Makes Getaway

Chicago, July 1 (AP) — The youthful burglar who broke into Paul Dory's home and stole about $300 worth of articles made a clean getaway.

Everyone there knew would not start until Thursday afternoon. But it's been customary for years to put on demonstrations like that, so they were put on.

All this must have been a bit amusing to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the political generals running his campaign.

They knew on Wednesday night amid all the excitement, that Dewey was the best bet to get the nomination when the voting started the next day.

Bonneauville

Bonneauville — Mrs. William Travers and daughters, Jacqueline and Ann, and Miss Jennie Chrimer, of Baltimore, visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chrimer last Thursday. Miss Jennie Chrimer remained here to spend sometime.

getaway.

Dory saw the burglar flee when he arrived home about noon. He noticed he was wearing his green jacket and plaid trousers.

The burglar's gray shirt and trousers were found in Dory's bathroom. There was evidence the youth had taken a bath.

RUSSIAN MOVE IN YUGOSLAVIA BAD BLUNDER

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Muscovite hierarchy clearly has made a mighty bad tactical blunder in seeking to combine police-dog on Marshal Tito and the Yugoslav communist captives.

The combine has received a kick in the teeth which has done more to convince the western democracies on the Bolshevik dictatorship's vulnerability than any event since the war. Moscow had played the school-yard bully with so little resistance for so long that it had built up a tradition of success. Now in one bad move it has thrown away much of its ill-gained advantage.

The immediate result has been a stiffening of the democratic front.

True, some very cautious quarters in Washington have been speculating that the Yugoslav maneuver might be phony. They figure it could be a ruse to arouse western antagonism and then capitalize on it, or to open up Yugoslavia as a channel through which Marshall Plan help could pass into the Soviet zone. Be that as it may, if it was intended as a trick, it has failed.

Democracies Get Tough

Coincident to, or as the result of, the Moscow-Tito mixup both Britain and America show further signs of getting tough in dealing with the efforts of the Reds to starve the population of western Germany by a food blockade. British Foreign Secretary Bevin charged in the House of Commons yesterday that the Russians were resorting to a war of nerves.

And in Washington Secretary of State Marshall said the United States would deal promptly with basic questions raised by the Russian blockade (though he didn't say how).

Furthermore the three democracies virtually completed their plans for the formation of a German government out of the American-British-French zones. Russia can pool her zone with the rest for a new Germany—or stay out. The western allies have become fed up with waiting on the whims of the Bolsheviks.

Yugoslavia continues to stand pat in her defiance of Moscow and hints of willingness to deal with west as well as east. Not only that, but she boldly proposes a Balkan bloc with Bulgaria and Albania. And Bulgaria, which long has been closer to Russia than any other Balkan state, promptly climbed on the fence between Moscow and Yugoslavia. That must be hard for the Muscovites to swallow.

To cap the climax the gorgeously uniformed and much be-medaled Marshal Tito is reported by the Belgrade radio to have reappeared in the capital. He was as usual theatrical, for he is said to have visited some building sites—about the last thing one would have expected him to do in the midst of the tense crisis.

The next move would seem to be up to Moscow.

Name Chairman For Pennsylvania Week

Harrisburg, July 1 (AP)—Edgar Z. Wallower, of Harrisburg, will serve as chairman for the south central area in the 1948 observance of Pennsylvania Week, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

The area includes Adams, Bedford, Blair, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Lebanon, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder and York counties. It is one of the six subdivisions in the state.

Others named by Brig. Gen. Brenton G. Wallace, statewide chairman, to serve on the area committee include Mrs. Edred J. Pennell, Mifflintown, and A. K. Redmond, Harrisburg.

The Pennsylvania Week observance is designed to focus attention on the commonwealth's historic importance and its capacity for future development.

GIVES ANTIDOTE FOR COMMUNISM

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1 (AP)—

America's best defense against communism is to "so develop our legal and economic systems that no man in his right mind will prefer the dubious virtues of a communistic regime," the Pennsylvania Bar Association was told last night.

"If we can develop our legal and economic system so that democracy, liberty and freedom will have a real meaning to all members of our society, we will be spared the tyranny of communism," Ervin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard University Law School, told delegates to the 53rd annual convention of the association.

"We are worried about Russia," he said, "and I would be far from saying that we do not have reason to be concerned. But it strikes me there were few Russians in Rumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia." Earlier, the association's committee on the Pennsylvania constitution submitted a report urging the reapportionment of legislative and judicial districts in the state.

"Representation has not kept pace with the growth," the report said. "An examination of the legislative journals indicated that at approximately the proper intervals bills have been introduced in the legislature for the proper re-districting of the state. The legislature simply has not passed these bills."

The first cash register was invented in the United States in 1793.
